CHICAGO CHARGES AGAINST GALLANT AND HANNIGAN

LICENSED THERE BEFORE CONVICTION

Both Represented Damage Suit Plaintiff Who Disappeared After First Day of Questioning.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—Marion J. Hannigan and Otis M. Gallant, former St. Louis attorneys, who were suspended from the practice of law in Missouri for one year last June 30 for solicitation of personal injury damage claims, were notified to appear today before the Grievance Committee of the Chicago Bar Association, following receipt of complaints that they had solicited damage claims here.

The Grievance Committee began an investigation of the two attorneys, President Charles M. Thomson of the Chicago Bar Association told the Post-Dispatch today, when it was learned, after they had been licensed in Illinois, that they had been suspended in Missouri.

Should it be established to the satisfaction of the Grievance Committee that the two attorneys had solicited claims in Chicago or had obtained Illinois licenses by misrepresentation, Thomson said, the committee would recommend that the Bar Association's Board of Managers file an information in the Illinois Supreme Court seeking the attorneys' disbarment or suspension.

Both Gallant and Hannigan were licensed by the Illinois Supreme Court before the disciplinary proceeding was filed against them in St. Louis in September, 1935. Gallant was admitted to Illinois practice Oct. 11, 1934, and Hannigan was admitted June 13, 1935. Ordinarily, lawyers who have practiced in another state for eight years are licensed in Illinois as a matter of course.

Hannigan's Statement.

Hannigan has said that when he came to Chicago he inquired of the Bar Association whether there was any objection to his practicing here and was informed there was none.

Thomson said he had no personal recollection of this, adding that Hannigan may have appeared before the association's Committee on Character and Fitness.

Also Hannigan has said he had not solicited business in Chicago nor employed runners for that purpose and was not associated with Gallant in law practice. Gallant, he has said, has been inactive since he became ill about a year ago.

Robert Guttman and Frank Novoson, former lay employes of Gallant and Hannigan, who solicited claims for them in St. Louis according to testimony at the disciplinary hearing there, were said to be in Chicago.

Gallant and Hannigan were counsel for the plaintiff in a personal injury damage suit here in which their client disappeared after the first day of questioning by defense counsel. This was a year ago, before they were suspended in St. Louis but after the disciplinary action had been filed against them in the St. Louis Court of Appeals.

Appearance in Chicago.

Hannigan appeared Dec. 11, 1935, before Circuit Judge Roman E. Posanski, representing William Lambert Bell, handyman at a cigar store, who sought $25,000 from the Silver Creek Coal Co. for injuries he said he suffered in an accident Nov. 21, 1934. Gallant was attorney of record.

Bell was not in court the next day. Judge Posanski postponed the hearing with the remark that he would dismiss the suit if Bell did not explain his absence.

At a final hearing last Jan. 17, Bell returned to court and said he had moved from one room in a hotel to another on the day he had failed to appear in court.

In affidavits presented to the Court, two hotel clerks said that on that day, Dec. 12, 1935, Gallant had visited Bell, aided him with luggage and summoned a taxicab. One clerk added that a man, not identified, had requested him later to remove Bell's name from the hotel register. "The man offered 'to fix me up,'" the clerk said.

Bell's claim was dismissed after the February hearing, but a second suit subsequently was filed for him in Superior Court by other attorneys.

How Circuit Judge Padberg Threw Solvent Business Into Receivership and Was Overruled

One Fellow Judge Upset His Action as Judicial Error; Another Dismissed Entire Suit as Without Merit.

Examination of the record of Circuit Judge Eugene L. Padberg, whose failure to instruct his grand jury to investigate evidence of fraud in the river front bond election has subjected him to severe criticism, shows another instance of unusual judicial conduct and attitude on his part, which has excited a great deal of comment in legal circles.

About six months ago he appointed a receiver for a going concern without providing the defendant company and its officers with the customary opportunity to be heard on the merits of their protest. Subsequently this summary action was, in effect, reversed by two of his fellow judges.

The Post-Dispatch was informed that following the first of these reversals Judge Padberg tried to induce the Clerk of the Court not to issue a certified copy of the nullifying order, but the clerk refused, as failure to issue the order would have been a serious dereliction of duty.

Although the temporary receivership was vacated by the first reversal and later definitely denied when the case was heard on its merits by a second Judge, attorneys for the defendant concern complained bitterly that their client was deprived of control of its business and property for a considerable time and denied the equal protection of the law, and a number of its employes were fired or quit when the receiver came in.

And in the wake of Judge Padberg's extraordinary judicial course was left the muddle of what shall be done, and who shall do it about the claims for several thousand dollars in fees which were filed by the receiver, his attorney and an expert accountant.

Suit by S. N. Long.

The case was that of the S. N. Long Warehouses, 828 Gratiot street. The receivership was sought by S. N. Long, founder of the business, who alleged that his grandson, Wilfred Long, to whom he turned over the business on Dec. 1, 1934, had failed to live up to the contract between them, and further that under the grandson's management the business had been rendered insolvent and its assets dissipated.

When the Post-Dispatch asked Judge Padberg for an explanation of the strange proceedings in the case, the Judge denied there had been any irregularity of procedure, technical or otherwise, and insisted that, as for criticism of his action, "there was nothing to it." On the face of the record it appears that Judge Padberg appointed the receiver when a demurrer filed by the defendant had not been ruled on by him and without a hearing on the order to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed, something most unusual except on a showing by the plaintiff of a likelihood of immediate and great loss.

Denies Hearing Was Required.

He said the absence in the minutes of any record of his having overruled the demurrer was due to an oversight by the court clerk, and as for a hearing on the merits of the petition he contended none was called for since his understanding had been that the case was "submitted on the pleadings" when the demurrer was argued. The court clerk, however, gives a different version of this phase of the matter.

The chronology in the court records follows:

Order issued July 15, 1936, by Judge Padberg, for the defendant to show cause on July 21 why a temporary receiver should not be appointed.

A return which has been described as "in the nature of a demurrer" was filed by defendant and on July 21 was argued, the Court taking it under advisement. A notation was made on the record, "Hearing on the order to show cause passed until further order of the Court."

James P. Spelman was appointed temporary receiver Aug. 11, his bond fixed at $20,000, and Joseph F. Schmitt was appointed attorney for the receiver. A motion to vacate the appointment of a receiver was filed by counsel for the defendant and on Aug. 17 a change of venue was granted, the case going to Judge Granville Hogan.

An order signed by Judge Padberg overruling the defendant's original return "in the nature of a demurrer" was dated and filed Sept. 21, and on the same date Judge Ho-

SIKH REGAINS CONSCIOUSNESS AND LEARNS HANGING FAILED

Murderer Believes Prayers of Indians Saved Him; Sentence Expected to Be Commuted.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 31. — Atma Singh, Sikh murderer, sat up and took nourishment today after awakening from what started out to be a hanging two days ago. He had murdered a fellow constable of the Shanghai International Settlement Police Force. The rope broke as he plunged through the trap and he escaped with a brain concussion.

When he regained consciousness he gazed at police guards and dazedly said, "I thought you were going to hang me."

He heard what had happened to him and believed the prayers of devout Indians had helped him escape.

ENGLISH SCIENTIST ORGANIZES MADRID DEFENSES AGAINST GAS

Prof. Haldane Exposes Himself to Poisons to Test Effects; Son Fighting for Loyalists.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, Dec. 31.—Prof. J. B. S. Haldane, English scientist who organized poison gas defense for the capital, left today for Albacete. Madrid defense officials said he "gave us all possible help." Haldane refused to say what he had recommended, or whether he thought the measures would frustrate an attack.

As he did in his London laboratory where he has experimented on himself, Prof. Haldane exposed himself here to several poisons to test their effects.

He said he was going to Albacete to see his 17-year-old stepson, Ronald Burghes, youngest member of the international column with the loyalists in the city.

ZOO ANIMALS POISONED AND BUILDING SET AFIRE

Director at North Miami, Fla., Reports Events; Suit to Bar Institution Failed.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 31.—G. F. Sirman, director of the North Miami Zoo, reported yesterday that several animals had been poisoned and that one building had been set afire. When the zoo was moved to its present site several months ago some residents sued to have it declared a nuisance, but a special master reported against the petition.

The victims of the poisonings were two Galapagos turtles, a calf, two ringtail monkeys and a sandhill crane. Several other animals were made ill, but did not die.

The fire, Sirman said, started in the thatched roof of the entrance building. It was put out before it caused much damage.

POPE IN LESS PAIN BUT STILL LOSING IN FIGHT FOR LIFE

Under Opiates He Sleeps a Little During Night, but Still Does Not Get Very Much Rest.

HEARS MASS, DRAFTS NEW YEAR'S MESSAGES

No Holiday Celebration in Vatican City This Year—Prayer Service Held in St. John Lateran.

By the Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 31.—Pope Pius XI was reported today to have rallied somewhat and slept better last night than at any time since his illness took a turn for the worse a few days ago. He is 79 years old.

After hearing mass, he began drafting his New Year's greetings, but despite the improvement he was reported in a losing battle. Frequent mild opiates eased his pain, but even the brief periods of relief did not give him a great deal of rest.

At dawn attendants shook their heads when asked if there were any improvement. Throughout the night lights burned in the windows of the Pope's apartments where doctors and nurses assembled by Dr. Aminta Milani labored to stave off the end.

The condition of the Pope was described today for the Associated Press by one of his doctors in a written report which follows:

"The Pope suffered the breaking of a varicose vein in his left leg, producing a wound which is still open and which will require much time to heal.

"At the same time, he had an arterial obturation (blockage of the artery). An embouis (blood clot) closed an artery, thus impeding normal circulation of the blood and causing swelling of the left leg, light paralysis and very severe pain.

"These phenomena disappeared two days ago, after normal circulation had been reactivated with opportune diathermic (heat) treatments.

"What is most greatly pre-occupying is his general condition, especially the heart which at times gives indications of tiredness, and the functioning of the kidneys, which is greatly diminished.

"In consequence of these facts and very accentuated arterio-sclerosis (hardening of the arteries), His Holiness presents the phenomena of asthma, weakness and general exhaustion."

The physician added that although local circulation in the leg had improved, the Pontiff's general circulation remains sluggish and there are clots in the blood stream which, if they reach the heart or brain, will be fatal.

Reliable sources disclosed that for three months the Pope suffered from varicose veins, with his valet, Giovanni Malvestiti, the only other person knowing his condition. The two attempted to cure the condition with home remedies, these sources said, without telling anyone else in the Vatican. Not even the Pontiff's doctors were informed of the affliction, it was reported.

Sixteen Cardinals and 10,000 laymen prayed for the Pope's recovery at St. John Lateran today. The prayer service was held in conjunction with a Te Deum celebrating the close of the centennial celebration for Pope Saint Sylvester. Joining in the prayers were the Pope's sister, Donna Camilla Ratti; his sister-in-law, Signora Fermo Ratti, and his niece, Marchesa Persichetti-Ugolini. Francesco Cardinal Marchetti Selvaggiani officiated.

FOOD WAREHOUSE WORKERS EXPELLED BY PARIS POLICE

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Dec. 31.—Mobile Guards expelled food industry employes today from six warehouses still occupied after contracts were signed ending a strike. The workers were ejected without resistance.

At Nice workers occupied the lobbies of two fashionable hotels, demanding non-union workers be replaced with union workers. Registration of new guests was not allowed but there was service for those already booked.

Unrest continued in other industries, despite a Government promise to hasten application of the 40-hour week. Metal workers repeated their demand for a hearing not later than tomorrow on their appeal for pay increases. Butchers set Jan. 21 as a deadline for inauguration of the 40-hour week by signed contract in the meat industry.

ACTIVITY AT HOME OF BOY HELD BY TACOMA KIDNAPER

Auto of Type Specified in Note for Delivery of $28,000 Ransom Leaves Mattson House in Night.

CHILD'S RETURN TODAY PREDICTED

Advertisement in Paper Changed—Father of Victim Said to Have Heard From Abductor.

By the Associated Press.

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 31. — A small coupe occupied by a middle-aged pair, a man and a woman, left the residence of Dr. W. W. Mattson early today. It was of the type specified by the kidnaper of 10-year-old Charles Mattson for the delivery of the $28,000 ransom demanded in the note left on the floor of the Mattson living room Sunday night when the boy was abducted.

Refusing to disclose their identity or the purpose of their visit with the Mattsons, the pair drove slowly toward the center of Tacoma. They had been in the Mattson home two hours.

The car bore a license registered in the name of Mildred Mattson, cousin of the kidnaped boy. Her address, according to State records, is Portage, Vashon Island, across Puget Sound from Seattle. The woman denied she was Mildred Mattson.

Another automobile, an old sedan, left at the same time, carrying several persons who came out of the Mattson home.

The Seattle Times carried a classified advertisement in its noon edition today, reputedly in connection with the Tacoma Mattson kidnaping, saying: "Mable—We are ready. Everything entirely in accordance with your desires. Ann."

It replaced an advertisement, carried since Monday, in which "Ann" asked "Mabel" her new address and which was believed to have been inserted as a means of establishing contact with the kidnaper.

In its noon edition today, the Times also stated that it was informed by "an absolutely reliable authority" that Dr. R. W. Mattson had heard from his son's kidnaper and been assured of the boy's safety. The Times quoted its informant as saying "the $28,000 ransom was ready" and that a "pay-off man" was being selected to negotiate the ransoming of the child.

It said the Mattson family in Tacoma, in compliance with the authorities' demands for strict silence, had declined to comment on the advertisement or on the reputed contact with the kidnaper.

Return Today Forecast.

A visitor, who would not permit use of his name, reported a new spirit of confidence in the household of Dr. Mattson today. Mrs. Mattson, reported Tuesday to be near a break-down, slept soundly through the night, the visitor said, after mingling with friends most of Wednesday. Muriel, 14-year-old sister of Charles, likewise seemed to have recovered from the shock of the kidnaping she witnessed.

A daily visitor at the house predicted the boy would be returned today. Another intimated the ransom had been paid.

The ransom note contained 72 words. It specified that $10,000 of the money be paid in $5 bills and the rest in $50 bills, all old and wrinkled. No threat of death was made.

The note specified that $10,000 of the ransom money be in $5 bills and the rest in $50 bills, all old and wrinkled. It made no mention of the Mattson family by name but said "the boy" would be safe. No death threat was made.

One Person to Be Go-Between.

The family was directed to "send anyone"—but only one person—with the ransom, in the specified type of car. The note threatened to double the amount demanded if negotiations were not under way by Sunday, Jan. 3.

The demand was printed on two sides of a medium-sized sheet of foolscap, apparently with a child's printing set. The paper was dirty and had been refolded.

The note was seized an hour after the kidnaping by Department of Justice agents, who have not disclosed the exact wording or allowed any pictures to be made of it.

MADRID RELEASES U. S. CARGO ON STEAMER IT REQUISITIONED

Orders American Firm Paid for Any Damage Resulting From Diversion of Flaxseed.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—The State Department was advised today that the Spanish Government had instructed its Ambassador in Mexico to release a $400,000 cargo of flaxseed belonging to an American firm. The cargo was diverted to Vera Cruz when the Spanish steamer Motomar was requisitioned by that Government.

The American Embassy at Valencia reported also to Washington that the Spanish Government had ordered indemnification of the owners of the cargo for any damage they may have suffered by the diversion.

The Motomar was chartered by the Archer-Daniels Co. of Minneapolis, to take the cargo from Buenos Aires, Argentina, to Edgewater, N. J. The vessel was requisitioned by the Spanish Government when on that voyage north.

Chamber of Deputies Committee Passes Resolution Carrying Request to Government.

PARIS, Dec. 31.—The Chamber of Deputies Colonial Committee passed a motion yesterday requesting the Government to permit Abd-el-Krim, Riff chieftain, to return to France from his exile on the Isle of Reunion.

Leftist Deputies, declining to give their reason for wanting him back in France, referred to him as a "great friend" of the nation. There have been reports that the man who held Spain's army in check in Morocco "might be useful" if the international situation grew worse.

MASSACHUSETTS JOBLESS INSURANCE LAW IS UPHELD

State Supreme Court Dismisses Appeals of Two Firms Resisting Payroll Taxes.

BOSTON, Dec. 31. — The Massachusetts Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of the State unemployment compensation law yesterday, and rejected the petition of two Boston firms for an injunction against the payment of payroll taxes.

The full bench dismissed the appeal of the Howes Brothers Co. and the George H. Ellis Co. Attorneys for the two firms argued that the legislation, which is a State enabling act for the Federal social security law, was "capricious."

Both Carriage Units at Flint, Mich., Shut Down —Tieups in Four of Cities Stop Adjoining Chevrolet Factories.

AUTO INDUSTRY HIT BY GLASS SHORTAGE

Operations of Two Major Producers Halted for Weeks by Labor Disputes —Stop Orders Curtail Parts Manufacture.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Dec. 31.—Strikes were in effect today at six plants of the Fisher Body Co., subsidiary of General Motors Corporation. Four of the strikes caused the closing of nearby Chevrolet plants dependent on the Fisher factories for bodies.

The latest strike was called at noon today when Willis Marrer, president of the International Union of Auto Workers Local 139, ordered out 2200 union employes of the Chevrolet and Fisher Body Co. plants in Norwood, O., a suburb of Cincinnati. He said the strike which "shut the plant down tight" was in support of the United Automobile Workers' effort to obtain "better working conditions and higher wages" in the automobile industry.

Second Flint Unit Closes.

The fifth Fisher unit to close was the No. 1 at Flint, Mich. Members of the night shift sat down last night, halting operations at the plant, which employs 6500 persons. This forced the closing at 1 p. m. today of the assembly lines at the Buick Motor Co. plant in Flint, throwing 4000 men out of work.

Fisher Plant No. 2 at Flint also had closed yesterday following a "sit-down" strike. It employs 1200. One thousand more workers were made idle when the Chevrolet assembly and delivery plant at Flint, dependent on Fisher No. 2 for bodies, subsequently closed.

The Fisher factories in Atlanta and Kansas City have been closed by strikes for several weeks, with the resultant shutdown of the Chevrolet plants in those cities. About 1300 workers are idle at Atlanta, 2400 at Kansas City.

The strike in the Fisher body plant at Cleveland has not caused the closing of any other units of General Motors. The Cleveland unit supplies stampings for other Fisher branches. Seven thousand are idle there.

Altogether, 25,000 or more General Motors workers are on strike or are idle because of strikes.

Other Automotive Strikes.

Two hours after the Chevrolet assembly line halted at Flint, 60 workers of the day shift of the Standard Cotton Products Co., which supplies cotton filling for automobile seats to the Fisher plant, began a sit-down strike, tieing up operations. They demanded a 20-cent an hour wage increase, an eight-hour day and time and one-half for overtime.

Another sit-down strike continued in one Detroit branch of the Bohn Aluminum and Brass Co., with 500 workers idle.

The Walker-Michigan Co. announced that its automobile accessory plant in Jackson, Mich., would reopen today. Forty employes who began a sit-down strike there Tuesday left last night at the request of Police Chief Edward C. Harris, who went to the factory with 20 policemen.

Glass Strikes Crippling Industry.

While General Motors has been the hardest hit directly by the strikes so far, most of the automobile manufacturers are beginning to feel the pinch of a glass shortage caused by a shutdown of operations of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass and the Libby-Owens-Ford Glass companies, largest producers of automobile glass. Thirteen thousand workers of these companies are on strike or idle.

LEWIS SAYS CIO STANDS BEHIND AUTO WORKERS

Support Demand for Collective Bargaining Through General Conference.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 31.—John L. Lewis, head of the Committee for Industrial Organization, in a statement to the Cleveland Plain Dealer last night, said:

"The Committee for Industrial Organization stands squarely behind the United Automobile Workers in their demand for collective bargaining with General Motors Corporation. Obviously attempts to settle this widespread confusion through local plant conferences and with plant managers devoid of authority would be a futile waste of time. The decision affecting what will occur in the automotive plants of General Motors is entirely in the hands of the officers of that corporation."

William S. Knudsen, executive vice-president of General Motors, acknowledged receipt of a request from Homer Martin, president of the Automobile Workers' Union, for a general conference on "the labor situation in General Motors" on behalf of its 211,000 employes. Knudsen said he had forwarded the communication to Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of the corporation, in New York.

Martin has called the meeting for Sunday at Flint. It will be attended by representatives from General Motors factories in several states. The delegates will be asked to approve the subjects which the union proposes to discuss with General Motors executives.

AUTO STRIKE LEADER A FORMER PREACHER AND STAR ATHLETE

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 31.—Guiding the United Automobile Workers of America, now engaged in strikes at several General Motors plants, is Homer Martin, who left a small Missouri church pulpit four years ago ultimately to become president of the union.

Martin, the son of a school teacher, was born near Marion, Ill., and preached at the age of 19 in small churches in Southern Illinois. Entering William Jewell College at Liberty, Mo., Martin participated in track and field events, excelling in the broad jump. In 1924 under the banner of the Illinois Athletic Club he won the National A. A. U. hop, step and jump title.

On graduation from college Martin held pastorates in Missouri, his last at a small Baptist church in Leeds, Mo., a suburb of Kansas City, where many of his congregation were automobile workers. Criticism by his congregation of labor remarks in his sermons

PART OF CABINET SAID TO BE GOING BACK TO MADRID

Several Members Reported Planning to Return to Keep in Close Contact With City's Defenders.

INSURGENTS SHELL CENTER OF CAPITAL

Rain and Cold Stop Infantry Fighting — Rebel Train of 25 Freight Cars Blown Up.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, Dec. 31.—Several members of the Spanish Cabinet are reported today to be planning to return to Madrid to maintain close contact with the besieged capital's defenders.

Defense of the capital has been in the hands of Gen. Jose Miaja, head of the Defense Council, since the Cabinet of Francisco Largo Caballero, Premier and War Minister, was moved to Valencia Nov. 11. President Manuel Azana previously had set up his offices in Barcelona.

Failure of the insurgents to pierce the Madrid defenses after more than seven weeks of fighting and recent reported successes by Madrid forces in the provinces have stimulated Government hopes that the tide of war would turn.

The insurgents began shelling the center of Madrid at 5 p. m. today.

Rain and cold weather halted fighting in the trenches near Madrid. Gen. Miaja and Gen. Emilio Kleber, naturalized Canadian who commands the International Brigade, took the opportunity to reorganize their units.

A War Ministry bulletin announced militiamen blew up a Fascist train of 25 freight cars on its way to Talavera de la Reina.

Government troops also were reported to have captured the town of Atienza, northeast of Siguenza, in the Guadalajara region and to have routed a column of Fascists in the Tagus River valley south of Aranjuez.

Government forces were massed in the Tagus River sector and around Pozuelo de Alarcon, making every effort to unite at a point east of Talavera de la Reina and cut the Fascist road to Estremadura. The time element was vital because of a rebel drive from Cordoba, on the south, which the government said was German-reinforced.

Advices from Santander, Bay of Biscay port in the north, said three insurgent warships shelled the city until they were put to flight by Government bombing planes.

Rebel Flyers Kill 71 of Their Comrades By Mistake.

By the Associated Press.

ST. JEAN DE LUZ, France, Dec. 31.—Spanish Government sources reported today insurgent pilots had killed 71 of their comrades when they machine-gunned Fascist trenches near Oviedo.

Thirteen planes of the insurgent fleet were said to have descended on the city Sunday in a raid intended to demoralize the Government troops whose positions encircle the city. Mistaking ground signals, the flyers attacked their own trenches.

The Government sources said captured prisoners described the incident.

Succeeds William H. Moran, Who Has Retired After 54 Years' Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—Frank J. Wilson, former Internal Revenue Bureau investigator, was appointed chief of the Secret Service today by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. He succeeds William H. Moran, who has retired after 54 years' service.

Joseph E. Murphy, a Secret Service veteran, was named assistant chief. Both will begin their duties tomorrow.

Murphy was ordered demoted recently after Morgenthau found he participated in an investigation of Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, who serve under the Justice Department.

Morgenthau said today that "in reinstating and promoting Murphy, I am taking into consideration the splendid record he made on President Roosevelt's South American trip." Murphy was in charge of arrangements for the trip.

Wilson, who has been acting chief during Moran's absence since Sept. 8, was transferred to the Secret Service from the Cleveland division of the Internal Revenue Bureau's intelligence unit.

How Padberg Put Solvent Firm in Receivership

gan vacated the receivership and ordered that the cause "be set down for hearing on the order to show cause."

Case Goes to Third Judge.

Judge Hogan disqualified himself for further proceedings in the case, seemingly because of feeling which his action in overruling Judge Padberg might have engendered, and it went to Judge Charles B. Williams, who on Sept. 26 heard the case on its merits.

A month later, Oct. 26, Judge Williams gave judgment for the defendant, finding the company solvent, dismissing the suit as without merit, and restoring the business to Wilfred Long. A motion for a new trial was overruled Nov. 16, and on Dec. 3 plaintiff was granted permission to appeal to the State Supreme Court. The appeal has not been perfected.

In the interim, Receiver Spelman tendered his bill for $750 for services; Attorney Schmitt submitted a claim for $1000, and Charles R. English, an accountant who audited the books of the warehouse for the receiver, filed a claim for $1520. Wages of a number of employes who had been put on the payroll by the receiver were paid out of the funds of the company.

Still pending before Judge Williams is the question who should pay the fees, if they are allowed. It must be determined whether a receivership created under the unusual procedure had in this case was valid at any time, and carries with it the obligation to pay fees at all, and if so whether the fees should be paid by the plaintiff.

Clark M. Clifford, attorney for the defendant, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that on Sept. 21, the day Judge Hogan vacated the receivership, he went to Judge Padberg in his chambers in the Municipal Courts Building at Judge Hogan's suggestion, where Judge Padberg finally overruled the demurrer, signing an order prepared and written by Clifford. Judge Hogan then vacated the receivership.

The suggestion that Judge Padberg be given an opportunity to overrule the demurrer first was advanced as a matter of judicial courtesy and because Judge Hogan did not want to set aside the receivership while the record, which still showed after two months no ruling on the demurrer, was incomplete. That is, he had no jurisdiction until the record showed Judge Padberg had ruled on the demurrer.

If any order overruling the demurrer was issued by Judge Padberg in the interim, Clifford, as well as the clerks, said he was unaware of it, and, as has been told, it was not entered in the record.

"On the day the demurrer was argued," Clifford said, "I was on hand with the defendant, prepared to present testimony, if necessary. I suggested to Judge Padberg that it would be advisable to first rule on the law point raised by the demurrer before going into the evidence. I did this because I thought my answer would be sustained. Judge Padberg assented."

But, as has been told, no ruling was made at that time and there never was an opportunity for the defendant to present evidence showing why a receiver should not be appointed. The clerk, as a matter of routine procedure, noted on the record "hearing on order to show cause passed until further order," aware that such a hearing is virtually mandatory save in cases of grave emergency.

Padberg Sees Judge Hogan.

On the day that Judge Hogan vacated the temporary receivership he was visited in chambers by Judge Padberg, accompanied by Judge William S. Connor. Judge Padberg's explanation of this call today is that the purpose was to "straighten out the record," that Judge Hogan had asked him to call.

But Judge Hogan said that "as a matter of courtesy" he had informed Judge Padberg he intended to vacate the receivership, and that the visit appeared to be for the purpose of "questioning my act." It was an uninvited call so far as he was concerned, he said. He recalled that Attorney Clifford handed him the order signed by Judge Padberg, overruling the demurrer, and that he then ruled on the receivership.

In discussing the overruling of the demurrer with the reporter, Judge Padberg said he had acted on that matter before he appointed the receiver, informing the clerk of his court of the ruling, but he admitted it did not appear on the minutes until Sept. 21. He thought the clerk must have overlooked it.

Attempt to Hold Up Order.

The Post-Dispatch was informed that after Judge Hogan had ruled, Judge Padberg went to the clerk's office, accompanied by Judge Connor, and attemptd to stop issuance of a certified copy of the order. Robert M. Crain, deputy clerk in charge of the transcript room, said Judge Padberg "ordered" him not to issue the certified copy.

Crain said that, without further explanation, Judge Padberg said, "Now I don't want any certified copy to be issued to anyone."

Since the attorney for the defendant had applied for such a copy and the clerk was legally obligated to issue it, Crain reported the occurrence to his superior, Circuit Clerk H. Sam Priest.

Priest told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he then went in search of Judge Padberg, finding him in the office of Presiding Judge McAfee.

"I told Judge Padberg that I would not obey his instructions unless ordered to do so by the Presiding Judge," Priest said. No such order, of course, was issued by Judge McAfee. The attorney got his copy of Judge Hogan's order and the receiver was removed.

Clerks Deny Omission.

Priest recalled that during the conversation in Judge McAfee's office, Judge Padberg asserted that one of the deputy clerks on duty during his summer term on the equity bench had failed to enter an order overruling the demurrer prior to the appointment of a receiver.

"Knowing that this would not have occurred," Priest said, "I summoned the clerks, but Judge Padberg did not press the matter further."

Stanley Kozlicki, deputy clerk on duty in Judge Padberg's Court on July 21, when the demurrer was argued, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that neither at that time nor at any other time when he was on duty did he receive instructions from Judge Padberg that the demurrer had been overruled. Kozlicki added that he entered the notation "hearing an order to show cause passed until further order of court," as knowing that such a hearing customarily is inevitable.

A. M. Vogel, the only other deputy clerk assigned to Judge Padberg during his summer in equity court, also told a Post-Dispatch reporter that Judge Padberg had not overruled the demurrer when he was on duty.

Vogel recalled he was on duty on Aug. 11, the day on which Judge Padberg appointed Receiver Spelman. Recalling the circumstances, he said:

"Judge Padberg came in, produced a piece of white paper with a man's name on it and said that that was the name of the man he was appointing receiver. I then suggested a bond and the Judge replied, 'Oh, make it $20,000.'

"He also named Joseph F. Schmitt as attorney for the receiver and I wrote it on the paper under the name of Spelman. After these notations were made I asked Judge Padberg to sign the paper, which he did, and it was duly incorporated in the records."

Judge McAfee's Account.

When the Post-Dispatch asked Judge McAfee whether or not Judge Padberg, on the visit to him on the day the receivership was vacated, had admitted having made a technical error, he said such an admission was made, "as indicated by the record," but that Judge Padberg offered the explanation of an oversight by a clerk.

Judge McAfee said that Judge Padberg complained against Judge Hogan's action and tried to have the order held up until the record could be "straightened out." Judge McAfee went with Judge Padberg to Judge Hogan's office, where Judge McAfee examined the record which he said showed Judge Padberg had erred.

The demurrer that was finally overruled by Judge Padberg was simply the formal legal declaration that the petition did not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action against the defendant and that the Court, therefore, was without power to appoint a receiver. It had nothing to do with evidence not heard by Judge Padberg, but held by Judge Williams when heard by him to be sufficient to refute the allegations of insolvency and mismanagement.

Receiver Spelman admitted to a Post-Dispatch reporter today the warehouse business was solvent when he assumed control Aug. 11, remaining in charge until Sept. 21, when Judge Hogan issued his order vacating the receivership.

Spelman, a former salesman for a plate glass company, said that he did not sign his name under the title of "receiver" to business correspondence while at the warehouse for fear of jeopardizing the business. Employes who were replaced by his crew left "of their own free will," he said.

Elected in 1934 Landslide.

Judge Padberg was one of the nine new Circuit Judges elected in the Democratic landslide of 1934. He had been employed as pharmicist at Alexian Brothers Hospital most of the time after his admission to the bar in 1927 until he entered the race for Circuit Judge. He is 46 years old.

Although not among the candidates receiving the indorsement of the Bar Association in the 1934 primary, Candidate Padberg received 58,447 in winning one of nine nominations. His vote in Jimmy Miller's Fourth Ward was higher by 1000 votes than in any other ward. In the general election his vote was the lowest of the nine successful Democratic candidates, two of whom were re-elected.

In finally obtaining a judgeship, after failing of nomination for the Board of Aldermen and Congressman-at-Large, he joined other members of his family on the public payroll and was subsequently joined by others.

As Circuit Judge Padberg receives compensation totaling $8000 a year; his brother, Louis R. Padberg, is Coroner, with a salary of $4000 a year. Louis R. Padberg Jr., son of the Coroner and nephew of the Judge, is chief radio operator of the Police Department at a monthly salary of $200.

Walter F. Padberg, the nephew of the Judge and the Coroner, draws $2000 a year as field manager of the property management department of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation. John F. Padberg, a cousin of Judge Padberg, is a deputy collector under Collector William F. Bauman at $140 a month, and a brother, Harry J. Padberg, is a clerk in the Works Progress Administration at $175 a month.

The animals were said to be savage half-wolves which, led by militiamen, leaped at the throats of the insurgents. Many of the Fascists were bitten by the dogs, headquarters declared.

INQUIRY ON SKELETON IN SHACK

Man Who Says He Got Bones as 'Collateral' Is Detained.

LEBANON, Pa., Dec. 3.—A Coroner's jury was told today that a woman's skeleton found in a burning shack, was given to a McAdoo man four years ago as "collateral" for a $200 debt. Milo Stanovich, nephew of the owner of the shack, told the jury he accepted the skeleton from a stranger who posed as a doctor. Stanovich said he took the skeleton to his uncle's place this summer and it was put in the shack.

Chief of Police Harry Sealer arrested Stanovich without filing a charge, and said he would question others about the case. Dr. H. S. Gingrich, the Coroner, said the woman might have been murdered.

SUIT TO DISBAR VERNE LACY IS SET FOR HEARING FEB. 15

Counsel and Special Commissioner Albert M. Spradling Allow for Week of Testimony.

Testimony in the disbarment suit against Verne R. C. Lacy will begin Feb. 15 at 10 a. m. before Albert M. Spradling of Cape Girardeau, Mo., special commissioner of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, in the assembly chamber behind the courtroom. The date was fixed today by agreement among counsel for both sides and the special commissioner. Commissioner Spradling said the week of Feb. 15 would be set aside for the hearing.

James T. Garstang and Joseph H. Grand, representing the St. Louis Bar Disciplinary Committee, which filed the petition against Lacy last Nov. 2, agreed that costs, including the commissioner's fee and the fee of Herman da Costa, shorthand reporter, would be secured by an advancement from state bar funds. Ultimately, however, the costs will be assessed against the losing side.

Lacy would not agree to a suggestion made by Judge William Dee Becker of the Court of Appeals that the record of the hearing be transcribed by the reporter from his shorthand notes in narrative form in order to save expense.

Special Commissioner Spradling, who will report his findings of fact and conclusions of law to the Court for final decision, is a member of the law firm of Dearmont, Spradling & Dalton, and has practiced his profession in Cape Girardeau since 1908.

PARK DENIES WIDOW'S PLEA TO REVOKE WARE PAROLE

Says He Will Not Reopen Case in Which Murderer of Officer Was Released.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 31. — Gov. Guy B. Park advised Mrs. William McCormack of St. Louis today it would be "a useless expense and inconvenience" to come here to ask revocation of the parole granted Tuesday to Eugene Ware, convicted of murdering her husband seven years ago.

Mrs. McCormack wrote to the Governor, saying she wanted to "protest vigorously" against releasing Ware, and asked that the case be reopened.

Gov. Park wrote her that he granted the parole "upon the recommendation of the Prison Board and on account of his (Ware's) exemplary conduct while in prison. In addition to that, it appeared from the records that he was not the man who shot your husband."

BILBAO AUTHORITIES IGNORE NAZI THREATS

Acknowledge German Cruiser's Ultimatum But Refuse to Release Cargo.

By the Associated Press.

ST. JEAN DE LUZ, France, Dec. 31.—The Basque government of Bilbao ignored threats of German warships today and refused to continue negotiations for the release of the captured cargo of the German freighter Palos.

The Spanish authorities acknowledged a German ultimatum from the cruiser Koenigsberg to free the cargo outright with the announcement that they planned to leave further developments to the Non-Intervention Committee in London.

Whether the Koenigsberg would accept the refusal or apply the "consequences" threatened was not disclosed.

The British destroyer Foresight, which arrived here yesterday, reported a German battleship believed to be the Admiral Graf Spee was sighted off Bilbao with the cruiser.

The steamer Palos was freed by the Bilbao authorities on the demand of the Koenigsberg but the Government refused to release the cargo, described as contraband of war, and a Spanish passenger said to be an insurgent agent.

Insurgent Spanish warships were reported to have appeared en masse off Santander this morning, drawing sharp fire from Government coastal batteries.

Madrid Says It Won't Yield to Germany's Demand.

LONDON, Dec. 31.—The Spanish loyalist Government asserted today it did not intend to surrender to Germany either the cargo of the freighter Palos or the single Spanish prisoner seized at Bilbao. The information was given to the Foreign Office in a note from the Spanish Ambassador.

Russia Willing to Stop Enlistments in Spain, Conditionally.

MOSCOW, Dec. 31.—The Soviet Government announced acceptance yesterday of French-British proposals to stop enlistment of foreign volunteers in Spain, but with four provisions to enforce the proposals. These were:

That the participants agree to establishment of an effective control toward fulfillment of the agreement.

That control measures be taken as soon as possible, independent of the attitude of Fascist Generals in Spain.

That the participants undertake moral responsibility before establishment of the control measures to watch arrival of volunteers and to make that information public.

That the agreement be made effective at the earliest possible date, so that there be no long interval during which present dispatch of "so-called volunteers" could be accelerated.

SHIP OWNERS OFFER TERMS TO TWO UNIONS

Insist on Choosing Personnel—Concessions to Strikers on Other Points.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31.—An immediate peace offer and major concessions were submitted today by shipowners to two of the seven unions involved in the long maritime strike.

The shipowners made the offers to the Masters, Mates and Pilots of America, and the Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association. They included an increase in wages, cash for overtime and union recognition, with a guarantee not to discriminate against officers for union activities. The shipowners, however, repeated: "We cannot permit interference with the selection of our licensed personnel."

The marine strive is in its sixty-third day, with 40,000 men out and 233 ships idle at Pacific ports.

The unions' joint Law and Legislation Committee announced tentative plans for a Federal legislation program.

The legislative program, approved by the joint strike policy committee, would give unions rights to strike, but provides for a Government boar dto mediate disputes.

The program, which was referred to coast units for approval or revision, also would empower the board to establish minimum wages, manning scales, and reasonable working conditions aboard all ships receiving subsidies.

Employers would be prohibited from discriminating against union workers, whose right to organize is reapated. Operators would be required to exert "every reasonable effort" to maintain working agreements.

Fines ranging from $2000 to $20,000 and imprisonment up to two years would be provided for violation of the provisions.

New York Police Keep Rank and File Men From Union Office.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Several hundred striking seamen were driven away from International Seamen's Union headquarters by police when clashes threatened yesterday with union officials opposed to the rank and file strike.

The seamen congregated at the headquarters after they heard reports that men were being hired there and sent by automobiles to the steamship lines. Police allowed a few strikers carrying placards to continue picketing.

The American Steamship Owners' Association announced only 62 liners and freighters are strikebound in Atlantic and Gulf ports.

COURT FORBIDS FIRMS TO MOVE THEIR PLANTS

Rules New York Employers Broke Contract—Rehiring of Workers Ordered.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Supreme Court Justice Philip J. McCook decided yesterday that two affiliated dress manufacturers must return to New York machinery they had moved to Pennsylvania. The order also directed the manufacturers—the Blue Dale Dress Co., Inc., and the Blue Fox Dress Co., to rehire employes who were locked out and to pay damages to the employes for loss of income.

The suit was filed by David Dubinsky as president of the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union and Philip Kapp as treasurer of the joint board of the Dress and Waist Makers Union of Greater New York. The union leaders charged the concerns closed their plants here to evade a union agreement and permit operation of non-union shops in Archbald, near Scranton, Pa.

Justice McCook said that "the logic of the situation calls for application of strong measures," adding that "with the end of NRA appeared a new need for such contracts as the one in suit." He continued:

"Without a remedy as wide as that need, unscrupulous employers of labor will be tempted to play one community off against another unlawfully depriving New York City of her business and her inhabitants of their livelihood."

The agreement with the union in this instance forbade the employer to move his shop or factory from its present location to any place beyond which the public carrier fare is more than 5 cents.

The defendant concerns charged that the union had broken the agreement by engaging in strikes and other acts contrary to the terms but Justice McCook said he was unable to find evidence of any conduct which would disqualify the plaintiffs from asserting and maintaining their rights under the agreement.

Dubinsky said the decision "goes far beyond the firm which it immediately affects." He said that since invalidation of the NRA the union has had to contend with numerous contract violations by manufacturers who would dismantle their plants and move to other states.

The Supreme Court in New York corresponds to the circuit courts in Missouri. The highest tribunal of the State is the Court of Appeals.

MULEPOLE FRITZ'S GAMBLING PLACE IS BOMBED AGAIN

Proprietor of East St. Louis Downtown Joint Gets Second Hint From His Competitors.

IT IS "CIGAR STORE" IN POLICE REPORT

Explosion Heard All Over Town—Other Operators Object to Auto Service From Bridge.

The gambling house of "Mulepole" Fritz, which, although wholly illegal, operates cheek by jowl with legitimate business establishments in downtown East St. Louis under the noses of complaisant police, was bomebd again last night, the second time in less than two months.

Those "in the know" about the gambling situation on the East Side expressed the opinion that nothing rough was intended by the bombing, just a reminder from "Mulepole's" competitors that they didn't like his methods of operation and that they would resort to sterner methods if something wasn't done about it.

Dynamite, or any of the other more potent explosives in use of bombers, would have smashed "Mulepole's" building and made some business for the carpenters and bricklayers if it had been planted where this bomb was, about two feet from the wall in the alley behind the gambling house, which is at 353 East Broadway.

Damage: 13 Broken Windows.

The fact is, however, that the bomb, which went off at 10:30 o'clock last night and was heard all over East St. Louis, did no more than break eight windows in the gambling house and five in a furniture house across the alley. Probably, it also frayed the nerves of the patrons and employes of the place, but none of them was around when reporters arrived. They had left in a hurry.

Apparently the bomb, like the one that went off on the early morning of Nov. 6 in front of the gambling house, was made of black powder, flash powder or some other slow-moving explosive used by bombers when they want to be severe without being too destructive.

The police, who went over last night to see what the noise was all about, were vague in their written report about the nature of the establishment on East Broadway. In the report it was stated that the bombing occurred at 353 East Broadway and farther down in the document was a reference to "the cigar store."

This must have referred to the cigar counter that "Mulepole" has included in his establishment for the convenience of his customers. The report said that one Willis Thomas was in charge of the place, that "three small windows" were broken and that a short time before the bombing someone had seen a brown Pontiac sedan with a Missouri license, going through the alley.

Mulepole's Bridge Service.

"Mulepole" has excited the anger of his competitors because he operates a string of service cars which pick up customers at the St. Louis end of the Eads Bridge and take them across the river to play at his dice tables. That, somehow, isn't considered cricket by the other operators, although the Venice gambling houses have been operating similar strings of cars for years, picking up customers in St. Louis.

When Fritz opened his place last summer it was common knowledge that the other gamblers on the East Side didn't like it. There was nothing luxurious about his place, but it was adequately furnished, not rich or gaudy, but a great improvement on the Spartan-like simplicity of most of the Venice joints. It also had a decided advantage over the Venice places and those out in the Madison County rural districts in that it was just a hop, step and a jump from downtown St. Louis.

Proud of Big Dice Table.

There is nothing effete about the activities of the place, no roulette, chemin-de-fer or any of those games. Just "crayps," played, as employes of the place like to point out, on two of the largest tables in the Middle West. Up in the front of the place are a blackboard, 50 feet long, for the entry of racing results, and a lot of tables where customers can sit while looking over their Racing Forms.

In front of the place, a late addition, is a garish electric sign with the legend "353 East Broadway." Everybody in East St. Louis knows what's inside.

Fritz, who lives at 3917 Magnolia avenue, St. Louis, is an old-timer in the gambling business. In 1930 he was kidnaped and later released on payment of $35,000 ransom. In 1927, when there was a report gangsters had robbed one of his places of $30,000, his only comment was, "Well, the boys came over from St. Louis for a donation, and we gave it to them."

ILLINOIS PAROLE AGENT SUSPENDED IN INQUIRY

He Testified in East Side Trial of Man Acquitted of Criminal Assault.

Thomas W. Cooney, St. Clair County parole agent for the Illinois Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation, has been suspended for the last 10 days, pending investigation of his testimony in the trial at Belleville last month of a former convict charged with criminal assault.

The defendant was Charles Evans of East St. Louis, who was paroled to Cooney. A confession to the East St. Louis police by Evans was introduced in the case, but Evans testified that it was forced from him by third-degree methods and Cooney testified that when he visited Evans at the police station the prisoner bore marks of apparent mistreatment. Police denied using force and the prosecuting witness, a 19-year-old woman, identified Evans as her attacker.

Evans, who had been sentenced to life imprisonment at the first trial, last January, when Cooney testified to the same effect, won a reversal and was acquitted at the second trial. T. P. Sullivan, acting head of supervision of paroles for the State bureau, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter by telephone at Chicago today that the investigation of Cooney had not gone far enough to permit discussion.

Police Commissioner Albert P. Lauman of East St. Louis complained to the State recently that Cooney, protecting paroled men under his supervision, hampered police investigations. Lauman and others complained about Cooney's part in the Evans trial. Cooney, who resides at 834 North Thirty-second street, East St. Louis, could not be reached today.

LACLEDE UNION NEGOTIATIONS

Mechanical Employes of Gas Company Seek New Contract.

Negotiations for a new working contract will open next week between the Laclede Gas Light Co. and representatives of its 550 union mechanical department employes.

The union men, who received a 7 per cent wage increase a year ago, are requesting a further wage increase for 1937. Martin Wagner, union president, declined to disclose details of the demands in advance of the negotiations. The present contract will continue in effect until a new agreement is signed, Wagner said. In the event the negotiators fail to agree, provision is made for arbitration. The union, Local 12006, Gas & By-product Coke Workers of America, is affiliated with the United Mine Workers of America. It was originally Local 18799, Gas House Workers' Union.

Six Purchased in U. S. for Use of Army School.

Six American-made airplanes purchased by the Mexican army for use in its school at Valbuena, on the outskirts of Mexico, D. F., passed over St. Louis today, stopping at Parks Airport, on the East Side, for refueling.

The planes, purchased at an Eastern factory, were piloted by six Mexican army pilots commanded by Col. Gustavo Leon, and including two captains and three lieutenants. They expected to stop at Springfield, Mo., and Tulsa, Ok., on the way to their home field.

FRISCO REORGANIZATION PUT OFF FOR SIX MONTHS

Company Gets Extension of Time; Earlier Proposal Abandoned, It Is Said.

Time for the filing of a reorganization plan for the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Co., now in bankruptcy proceedings in Federal Court, was extended for six months today by District Judge George H. Moore.

The extension was requested by the debtor corporation, in whose behalf Attorney Jesse McDonald argued at a hearing last week that more time was needed so that the company would not be shut out from submitting a plan. It is understood that a plan submitted earlier to the Interstate Commerce Commission, on which hearings were held, has been abandoned.

The RFC and the Railroad Credit Corporation, both creditors of the railway, opposed the time extension.

1937 AUTO STICKERS RECEIVED

Will Not Be Placed on Sale Until Some Time in January.

City automobile license stickers for 1937, to be affixed to windshields, have been received by License Collector Fred A. Renick, but will not be placed on sale until some time in January. They will cover the 12-month period beginning Feb. 1 and will cost from $2.50 to $12.50, depending on rated horsepower of the car. For a large number of machines the price will be $5.50.

Black lettering on an orange background is the color scheme for the new year. The stickers are slightly smaller than those for 1936, the new measurement being 2x4¼ inches. They bear facsimiles of the signatures of Renick, Comptroller Louis Nolte and City Registrar M. J. Cullinane. About 147,000 city automobile licenses were sold this year.

A claim on the furniture in the nursery in the house at 4736 Westminster place, which was an important "plant" in Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench's baby hoax, was filed in the Sheriff's office yesterday by Union-May-Stern Co.

In the claim, the furniture company said that $248.61 was due on a promissory note made by Mrs. Muench and her husband, Dr. Ludwig O. Muench, and that the makers of the note were "greatly in default."

Items included in the claim were an ivory crib, a mahogany coffee table, a mattress, a white chifforobe, table lamp and shade, nursery lamp and shade, a lounge chair and inlaid linoleum for the floor.

Another claim, to all the furnishings in the Muench home except the nursery equipment, also was filed yesterday with the Sheriff by Dr. Otto L. Muench of Washington, Mo., father of Dr. Ludwig O. Muench.

In connection with the claim it was stated that Dr. Ludwig O. Muench, now held in jail with his wife, Attorney Wilfred Jones and Mrs. Helen Berroyer, under prison sentence for mail fraud in the baby hoax, had given his father the furnishings ofthe house last Monday.

This assignment of the personal property was made on the same day that Dr. Ludwig O. Muench's Ford coupe was seized and a Sheriff's watchman was placed over his household furnishings on a levy by William H. Pfeifer, Webster Groves process-server. Pfeifer holds a judgment for $245 against the Muenches, for his services in obtaining witnesses for Mrs. Muench in May, 1935, when she was prosecuting her successful plea for a change of venue from St. Louis County of her trial in the Kelley kidnaping case.

GIRL, 12, WHO SAVED LIVES TO BE EDUCATED IN EAST

Kathryn Van Horn's Schooling Provided for by Cambridge (Mass.) Friends.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 31.—Ralph W. Robart has arranged for the education here of Kathryn Van Horn, 12 years old, who saved two boys from death last winter in White Cottage, O. Each summer she will go home to the farm her parents recently bought at Blue Rock, O. Mr. and Mrs. Clark Van Horn assented to the plan, Robart said.

The child threw herself into the path of a sled on which two boys were riding, toward a railroad crossing which an express train was approaching. The sled overturned and the boys were saved. The girl received the medal of the Legion of Honor from President Roosevelt, at the White House last August. Then she went to visit Mr. and Mrs. Robart and their daughter, Beatrice, a student at Framingham Teachers' College. "We felt that this girl who had won this high honor should have a chance to make the best of her talents," Robart said.

STORY OF NEW LINDBERGH RANSOM CACHE IS DENIED

Gov. Hoffman Says He Knows Nothing About Report $21,650 in Bills Were Found.

By the Associated Press.

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 31.—A formal statement from Gov. Harold G. Hoffman today said he knew nothing about a published report that a $21,650 "goldback" cache of Lindbergh kidnaping ransom money had been found by a New Jersey state trooper.

The governor said: "It is undoubtedly another one of the long list of journalistic pipe dreams conceived in confusion and designed to further mislead the public in its understanding of the Lindbergh case."

"Somebody's had a shot in the arm," was the way State Police Superintendent Col. Mark O. Kimberling referred to the reports. "There's nothing to this latest thing," he said, adding that the Lindbergh case is quiet.

Discussing the reported cache of bills, which the Philadelphia Record said were "believed to be Lindbergh ransom money," informed sources pointed out that the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom contained not a single goldback bill.

Kimberling, one of whose troopers was said by the Record to have found the bills, stated that none of his men had found any ransom money.

SIX MONTHS AND $500 FINE FOR LEAVING ACCIDENT SCENE

Negro Gets Maximum on Guilty Plea; Stayed in East St. Louis Nearly a Year.

Ray Thomas, Negro automobile mechanic, was sentenced to six months in the Workhouse and fined $500 by Police Judge Edward M. Ruddy today on his plea of guilty of leaving the scene of an accident. The penalty is the maximum for the offense.

Arrested yesterday near his home, 3130 Lucas avenue, he said he had been in East St. Louis since the day of the accident and told the Court he thought the matter had been "all straightened out" when he sent an aunt to pay medical expenses of the injured man.

Mrs. Amalia Gerstner Succumbs in City Hospital; 145th Fatality This Year.

Mrs. Amalia Gerstner, 77 years old, a widow, died yesterday at City Hospital of injuries suffered Dec. 5, when she was struck by a truck at Arlington and Easton avenues. She resided at 5344 Theodosia avenue.

The driver, Dade Sachan, 5839A Theodosia avenue, told police Mrs. Gerstner walked against the side of his machine.

There have been 145 motor vehicle fatalities in St. Louis this year, as compared with 164 last year.

George Farrar, 5447 Union boulevard, suffered leg injuries when his automobile hit a concrete safety zone marker at Kingshighway and Fountain avenue at 4:40 a. m. today. Following treatment at De Paul Hospital, he was taken home.

AUTO AND STREET CAR COLLIDE

Two persons were injured when the automobile in which they were riding east in Manchester avenue collided head-on with a one-man street car at Hampton avenue at 8 a. m. today.

Ocea Blankenbaker, 471 Clemens avenue, Kirkwood, the driver, suffered chest and head injuries. Mrs. Anna M. Doerr, a stenographer, 2212 Richert avenue, was hurt internally. Both were taken to Deaconess Hospital. Blankenbaker told police the accident occurred when he passed a slow-moving machine and failed to notice the street car.

terday "temporary stop orders" on parts shipments, extending curtailment of operations into many automobile factories supplying it with accessories.

It said these orders were due to the glass shortage and the possibility of additional strikes in its plants.

For several weeks the glass industry has been paralyzed by labor disputes. These strikes were called by the Federation of Flat Glass Workers, which, like the Automobile Workers' Union, is a member of the John L. Lewis Committee for Industrial Organization. The glass and automobile unions have a joint council to act on problems concerning their relations with the automobile industry.

In general, the chief union objectives in the strikes are increased wages, adjustment of overtime rates and recognition of the union as the collective bargaining agency. In some instances the United Automobile Workers also is demanding the re-instatement of employes it alleges were dismissed for union activity.

800 Bendix Workers Made Idle by Curtailment Order.

By the Associated Press.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 31.—Bendix Products Corporation was instructed yesterday by General Motors Corporation to curtail shipments of brakes for Pontiac, Oldsmobile and Buick automobiles and carburetors for Buick and General Motors trucks. The order means loss of work for 800 to 1000 Bendix employes.

Glass Company Orders Fires Pulled in Rossford (O.) Plant.

By the Associated Press.

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 31.—Furnaces in the Rossford plant of the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Co., will be shut down immediately, the company announced yesterday.

D. H. Goodwillie, a company officer said: "Since the strike was called Dec. 15, fires have been maintained in 14 of the Rossford furnaces with the hope that some settlement of the present labor difficulty might be promptly secured."

"More than two weeks have elapsed without resumption of labor negotiations and the 280 empty pots held in the Rossford furnaces are, in the company's opinion, no longer suitable for use, even though fires were maintained in the future. When the strike is settled it is believed that the furnaces, if now allowed to cool off, can be brought back into use with new pots and heated up with less loss of time than if the present fires are maintained."

FEDERAL INQUIRY NEXT WEEK IN CALIFORNIA PLANE CRASH

Department of Commerce Will Seek to Learn Cause of Accident in Which 12 Died.

BURBANK, Cal., Dec. 31.—The Department of Commerce will hold a public hearing in Los Angeles, probably early next week, in an effort to learn the cause of an airliner crash which killed 12 persons near here Sunday night, Inspector James L. Kinney has announced. Maj. R. W. Schroeder of Washington, chief of the department's airline's inspection service, will conduct the inquiry.

"The department is not a judge," Inspector Kinney said. "It is interested in salvaging clews that may prevent recurrence of such accidents."

The watches of three victims were stopped at 7:38 p. m., Coroner Frank Nance said. He accepted that as the time of the crash—only two minutes after Pilot Edwin Blom, seeking radio directions from Union Air Terminal here, said "Wait a minute," and lapsed into silence.

FIRST PLANE FLIGHT OVER MT. CHIMBORAZO

Initial Step in Andre Roosevelt's Aerial Photographic Survey of the Andes.

By the Associated Press.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Dec. 31.—Three men from the United States and one Ecuadorian made the first flights over Mount Chimborazo, highest peak in the Andes of Ecuador, in two monoplanes specially equipped for high altitude flights, yesterday. Chimborao has an altitude of 20,750 feet.

James H. Gray, aviation instructor, piloted one plane, with Andre Roosevelt, a distant relative of President Roosevelt, as his passenger. The other plane was piloted by Gerard Mulligan, also an instructor, with Lieut. Bayard Tobar of the Ecuadorian army, as observer.

The two planes cruised over the volcanic peak for one hour and 43 minutes. They reached top altitude of 22,100 feet.

The aviators reported temperatures close to 25 degrees below zero, centigrade (13 below, Fahrenheit), and were forced to use oxygen apparatus.

Roosevelt said the expedition was favored by fine weather and excellent visibility. He said he took 400 feet of movie film during the flight and obtained several still photographs. As the expedition cruised over Mount Chimborazo the flyers could see in the distance the erupting volcano of Sangay.

The flight was the first in Roosevelt's plan to make an serial and photographic survey of the Andes. The expedition will make flights over other volcanoes of Ecuador Monday.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles: that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Mr. Wells' Philippic.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE fame of H. G. Wells rests upon sundry novels (forgotten by most of us) and a history of the world, dashed off at novel-writing speed, where, in ex-cathedra style, he announces his conclusions on things mundane from the time of a nebulous earth to the present. Whimsically enough, the public acclaimed this work as a most welcome reminder of events they had forgotten since their school days and proceeded to rank Mr. Wells alongside Gibbon and Macaulay.

With his feet firmly planted upon this elevation and feeling his great importance as an authority, Mr. Wells decided to dip his pen into a black vitriolic liquid and spray the Archbishop of Canterbury till the person of that venerable prelate was of inky blackness.

Replying to the Archbishop's broadcast concerning ex-King Edward and his entourage, our novelist and historian proceeded to scourge the whole English hierarchy with a fury that was limited only by the lack of words molten enough to express the passion that raged in his breast. Adjectives that glowed with a white heat of wrath emitted sulphurous fumes reminiscent of Vesuvius. He went beyond the Archbishop and heaped contempt upon the church. Said he, "We modern Englishmen have been treating the Established Church with good-humored contempt." Religion itself is next attacked. He boasts that he and "his circle" are unbelievers. Evidently, he would feel quite at home in Moscow.

He concludes his philippic by saying he is a little ashamed of being English. Some might well agree, but for different reasons, that such a feeling was quite appropriate. L. R. JOHNSON.

Compliment for the Postmaster.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I CANNOT begin to tell you how much thousands of people appreciate the thoughtfulness of the postoffice officials in arranging to take care of the Christmas crowds at the main postoffice.

There were men there to help automobiles park, and every time one turned around, there was evidence of thoughtfulness on the part of the Postmaster and subordinates in taking care of people. There seemed to be a new order of things, a different atmosphere from the old days when the policy was to let the public do its own worrying.

A TAXPAYER.

Is It Really Hardee?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE saving cynicism of the native Missourian, thrown into the face of a gullible world in that crisp axiom, "Show me," seems to be absent to a marked degree both in the editor (of all persons!) and the generous gentleman who offers us perfection in a single new peach variety to replace our old Elberta.

To embrace a frost-proof peach and offer it as a mere gift of man is mild madness; Missouri winters respect only such hardy peaches as the gods might offer.

Indeed, it seems that Ohio winters have little consideration for the so-called completely hardy peach varieties. This Hardee peach, patented as cold-proof, was not hardy enough to survive last winter, when, if you recall, we really had excessive cold weather. The trees of this variety at the Ohio Experiment Station had no fruit the past summer, but trees in an orchard along a lake shore did bear. Almost any variety, given a favorable location near water, will come through a severe winter safely. That is an old trick along the Missouri River.

Momentarily casting off the dour affliction of my skeptical ancestors, may I suggest several new peaches worthy of trial? They are Golden Jubilee, Eclipse, Marigold, Oriole, Cumberland and Frank. The cautious scientists of some of our fruit experiment stations call these varieties "promising" as to hardiness of bud and quality of fruit. And by all means, let us pit the new Hardee peach against a diabolical climate that has in the past single year practically wiped out the peach industry of Missouri.

New Haven, Mo. GUY TRAIL.

"Feed 'Em and Vote 'Em."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

BIG CHIEF TOM wields a mighty and powerful scepter around his ballot-box court at the mouth of the Kaw, but here's hoping that the Federal grand jury throws a full-grown "stillson" into the works and wrecks completely the most corrupt political machine in my time.

Since Pendergast's slogan apparently is "Feed 'em and vote 'em," we quite naturally infer that the Christmas dinner tendered some 7000 hungry men, women and children was just another of his gestures to corral more votes and good will, rather than an act of charity. When politics gets so rotten that votes can be bought for a helping of turkey, mashed potatoes and gravy, it certainly is high time that something was done about it. If half of what has been charged proves to be true, the investigation is likely to disclose the shocking debauchery to which an unscrupulous political machine will go to control the results of an election.

This sort of a fight is no pleasant task, for corruption dies hard. But it can be licked if Missouri will rally to the clarion call of Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves. Wake up, Missouri!

Alton. WILLIAM McINTOSH.

AS 1936 QUITS THE STAGE.

What have I left for a saying
To bless me when I am dead?

That affair between Paris and Helen, as reported by Homer, was, of course, an event, chuckled venerable 1936, as he glanced uneasily at the clock. Paola and Francesca, too, gave Browning a chance to do a balmy feature story, and the world still goes "Maying in that ancient May," with Aucassin and Nicolette. But when the poets get around to it, as they will, they will install Edward and Wally in the gallery of immortal loves, and my brief tenure of time will be acclaimed the Renaissance of Romance.

No path of asphodels has been mine, but along the ways I have walked are the footprints of superlatives. I staged the coldest winter the planet has known since that secular hair shirt, the red flannel, was discarded, and across the skies the dust storms darkly swept, and the fields ached in a remorseless drouth, and the flesh was weary and spirits wilted in the hottest of summers.

By some dauntless magic, autumn splashed tortured hillsides with crimson, and out of cosmic veins flowed gold and amethyst and sapphire to fashion October's dowry, and pattering rains swelled into tumbling torrents, and the march of death was transmuted into the dance of life, and then the deluge.

Statisticians weighing percentages have solemnly averred that there had been more devastating Waterloos, but when the wordy war was ended and the roar of the Aeolus-throated radio ceased from troubling, there were Maine and Vermont singing a disconsolate duet, while the Neo-Dealers gazed incredulously at an all but continental conquest.

While yet in the cradle, it was apparent that I was to be a year of destiny. Still in dimpled dreamland when the Supreme Court thrust AAA into the limbo whither NRA had not long before been dispatched, and echoes of celebration were flying wide and far when Al Smith moved on to Washington at the head of the Liberty League's tailed and satined ranks to forge a bolt that fell with feathery impact.

Presently TVA stood in the icy chamber and emerged with juridical blessing, and Congress saluted the soldiers with a bonus, and the majesty of the law was vindicated by the Hauptmann execution.

For a week or two, Pennsylvania looked like the Atlantic Ocean, and the Guffey Act drifted away on the tides of unconstitutionalism, but Secretary Hull, toiling patiently in the background, added a trade treaty with Canada to his collection, and spring was smiling on the mountains and in the valleys.

June pinned a sunflower on Uncle Sam's lapel and hung Gov. Landon's picture in marble halls and stately palaces, and the Democrats grimly lived a week in Philadelphia, as was nominated in the bond, and July entered into partnership with Satan.

The Phantoms trooped into St. Louis in August from here, there and a thousand yonders, and the registration books bulged with names that were not born to live. The Phantom family has fled the city, and in that departure a blow was struck which may yet topple the despotic citadel of Kansas City's overlord.

There was a victory which 1936 may include among its accomplishments, along with the last curtain on the unsavory, long-drawn baby-hoax drama.

Three centuries of Harvard now look down on the Brattle street lilacs, and the occasion was marked by a nobility of scholarship which establishes a kinship, perhaps, between America's great institution of learning and that ancient University of Paris that welcomed the world in its mighty search for truth.

"Gone With the Wind" is still going like a hurricane, and "The Flowering of New England" will be read in 2036.

Beyond the seas, the reign has been troubled, mused '36. In the monstrous shadow of its dictatorships, Europe drifts down anxious days. With a fiddle under his chin, Il Duce might have been a twentieth century Nero, while helpless Ethiopia bled and burned. With his military occupation of the Rhineland, Hitler scrapped Locarno. And the suicide of Spain is a spectacle to impeach civilization. Hitler and Mussolini incarnate the tyranny of a feudalism which seemingly cannot dwell in neighborly relations with democracy. And Japan, so ingratiatingly polite a few years ago, now walks contemptuously out of a naval conference, demands parity on the sea, is restrained in her designs on China only, perhaps, by the Russian bear.

The English buried George V, Kipling, A. E. Housman and G. K. Chesterton; Pirandello said good-by to Italy, Antonio Scotti to the world, and on the American roll were written the names of James Couzens, George W. Wickersham, Finley Peter Dunne, Charles Curtis, Schumann-Heink, Harriet Monroe, William H. (Coin) Harvey, Secretary Dern, Gov. Ritchie and Arthur Brisbane. St. Louis mourned its beloved Father Tim Dempsey.

America rejoiced in the award of the Nobel Prize to the great dramatist, Eugene O'Neill, and the peace award to Von Ossietzky, victim of Nazi hatred, thrilled humanity.

The Buenos Aires conference may not have fulfilled expectations, but the President was received in the spirit in which he appeared, an ambassador of good will, by his own appointment, and there can be no doubt as to the genuine friendliness among the Americans, no question as to the hemisphere's progress toward peace.

Whatever the balance sheet shows, the verdict on 1936 will be "the best since 1929."

And 1937, stepping eagerly into the heritage, may be greeted with the rhapsody of that 10-year-old poet:

"Good morning, Sun and Moon! How is Stars?"

RELIEVING A COMPLEX.

A St. Louisan recently received one of those little postoffice notices, postmarked Washington, D. C., reading: "Please send 1-cent stamp for piece of mail addressed to you being held at this office because of insufficient postage." He obeyed instructions. He used a 3-cent stamp to mail a 1-cent stamp to Washington, and awaited developments. In a few days, there came a handsomely engraved card that said: "The Postmaster-General and Mrs. Farley extend their hearty Christmas greetings and best wishes for the New Year."

Press reports recently stated that others on Mr. Farley's list also had to put up another stamp apiece before they could read his Yuletide greetings. Is the Postmaster-General unfamiliar with the postal regulations? Perish the thought! Is he drumming up revenue for his department by sending his cards in this unique fashion? That, sir, is a base insinuation on the character of a gentleman and a Democrat.

More likely, the reason must be sought in the dizzy realm of psychoanalysis. Were Mr. Farley's subconscious probed by Dr. Freud's subtle scalpel, we wager a canceled postage-due stamp that it would be found to harbor a suppressed desire to bring back 2-cent letter postage. The P. M. G. annually states with great firmness that 3-cent postage must and will remain, a typical method of choking off a compelling impulse. This is very bad for the psyche, and may set up all sorts of dreadful complexes and devastating neuroses. Freud would certainly advise Mr. Farley to recommend revival of 2-cent postage. That would relieve the ingrowing complex, rejoice all letter writers and confer a particular boon upon recipients of the Farley Christmas cards.

THE PRESIDENT'S FORTHCOMING MESSAGE.

He (the President) shall from time to time give to the Congress information of the state of the Union, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall judge necessary and expedient. . . .

It is in accordance with this mandate of the Constitution that President Roosevelt next Wednesday will deliver his regular annual message to Congress.

He is commanded to speak on "the state of the Union."

In addressing Congress in January of 1936, at the opening of the session, Mr. Roosevelt said very little about the state of the Union, but delivered a political harangue—an acrimonious attack on those who had opposed the policies of the New Deal. As we said at the time, the performance failed not only in dignity but also in sportsmanship, since none of the opponents of the President could hope for a sounding board comparable to that afforded by a joint session of Congress.

The country awaits the forthcoming address of the President with keen interest. It is eager to have a clew to the specific policies that the President intends to pursue in furtherance of his general aims. An address on "the state of the Union," by Mr. Roosevelt as the President of the United States and not by Mr. Roosevelt as the head of a political party, is decidedly in order.

A LOOPHOLE IN THE NEUTRALITY ACT.

An incident pointing up the need for strengthening the Neutrality Act, which expires May 1, is the issuance of a license by the State Department giving an American firm the right to export $2,777,000 worth of airplanes and parts to the Madrid Government. Under the neutrality measure as it now stands, there is no barrier to such a sale, for the act applies only to wars between countries, not to civil wars.

Under international law, a goverment is entitled to buy war equipment abroad in order to put down a rebellion. Realizing the grave danger of the Spanish war spreading to other countries, however, the European Powers have agreed not to sell such wares to either side. The agreement has not been kept, but desperate efforts now are under way to restore it to full effectiveness.

If American firms, at this crucial moment, begin shipping planes to the arena of war, European nations may feel entitled to follow suit. Hence, there is real danger that this shipment will undo the strenuous endeavors now being made to isolate the war. There is another peril: if the planes go on an American ship (also technically permissible under the Neutrality Act), the Spanish rebels may capture or sink the vessel, thus plunging the United States into the European crisis.

President Roosevelt condemned this exporter's action as unpatriotic at his press conference Tuesday. Under the President's sponsorship, an effort will be made to rush a law through Congress as soon as it convenes, to stop the shipment. Most business men have already made up their minds to refuse business whose acceptance is contrary to America's foreign policy. The minority, those who put profits above peace, will have to be curbed by law.

SENATOR CLARK AND THE JUDGESHIP.

Senator Clark is to be commended wholeheartedly for the excellent formula he has laid down for his part in the selection of Missouri's new Federal Judge. Following his conference with Senator Truman here, the senior Senator said:

> As far as I am concerned, politics will have nothing to do with this appointment. I will not recommend anyone who is not eminently qualified or who is not of the highest personal and professional standing. I will not have first, second and third choices when I announce my recommendation. I will have one and I will stand by that one to the end.

This is precisely the spirit in which Missouri's Senators should accept the responsibility of recommending to the Attorney-General and the President, who will make the appointment. The political maneuverings of Senator Truman, who obviously is in league with Boss Pendergast, are a discredit to Missouri and an unwarranted reflection upon United States courts. The junior Senator should, without further delay, abandon the idea of a political appointment and come out for a nomination that will measure up to the praiseworthy standards set by Senator Clark.

JUDGE TIGHE'S VICTORY.

The long fight to place the St. Louis County Hospital in charge of an outstanding administrator has at last been crowned with success. County Judge Eugene G. Tighe and County Judge-elect William E. Lauer yesterday announced they had agreed to replace the incumbent, Dr. Sheahan, with Dr. Curtis H. Lohr, former Hospital Commissioner of St. Louis and president-elect of the St. Louis Medical Society.

Ouster proceedings, based upon charges of mismanagement, were successfully brought against Dr. Sheahan in Circuit Court, but the case was appealed and later thrown out by the Supreme Court on a technicality.

In the supposition that Dr. Sheahan would be replaced long before this, a committee of three eminent medical men was called upon more than a year ago to suggest a successor. They made a thorough search of the field and unanimously agreed on Dr. Lohr. He is, in their opinion, superbly equipped to make the county hospital what it should be and to justify the county's million-dollar investment.

Some of the worst phases of partisan politics were displayed in the resistance to the Sheahan ouster, but it is needless now to recall the bitterness of the fight. What should be said is that Dr. Lohr's appointment is chiefly to be attributed to the bulldog determination of Judge Tighe, who refused to let any consideration sway him from his purpose. On uncounted occasions, he presented motions to supplant Dr. Sheahan to his two colleagues, only to have them fail. Judge Tighe may pride himself on a fine personal victory. He could not, of course, have succeeded without the co-operation of Judge-elect Lauer, who withstood great pressure to go along with Tighe. It is an auspicious beginning for Mr. Lauer's career as a County Judge.

Keeping America Out of War

Most important job of Roosevelt's second term will be to prevent foreign entanglements, political analyst writes; thinks President will do all he can to resist economic and emotional suction if other nations go to war; tasks include framing sound neutrality laws and controlling foreign investments here and American loans abroad.

Ernest K. Lindley of the New York Herald Tribune Washington Bureau, in the Virginia Quarterly Review.

THE first and most imperative of Mr. Roosevelt's responsibilities in his second administration is to prevent our attention and energies from being diverted to an excursion abroad. Major wars in Europe, Africa or Asia—or all three—during the next four years are at least a visible possibility. If they occur, the economic and emotional suction applied to us will be powerful.

I believe that Mr. Roosevelt is now determined to do all that he can to resist this suction. I believe that he is aware that our participation in the World War stopped the Wilson reform movement in its tracks, and, in addition to the penalties of the war, ushered in a period of reaction which brought our society perilously near to ruin. I believe that he realizes that if we should succumb again, as we did in 1917, the aftermath would be unpredictable.

Disquietingly, some of his advisers are in the grip of the deterministic thesis that, if major wars occur abroad, we cannot escape involvement. So believing, they logically conclude that the United States should make an aggressive effort, in one way or another, to preserve the general peace. During the last three years, this pressure on Mr. Roosevelt has been whittled down by belated recognition of the sterner realities of the situation in Europe and the Far East and by numerous warnings that at the present time a great majority of the American electorate is not in a mood to tolerate any policy which obviously tends toward entanglement abroad.

A few shades removed from the fatalists who hold that peace is indivisible and neutrality impossible in the present-day world stand the open sympathizers with the democratic regimes of Europe, notably Great Britain and France. This sentiment is probably generally held in this country and would be intensified in the event of a war that found Great Britain and France allied against the Fascist Powers.

No one can predict to what whirlwinds of passion we might be subjected during another world war. One can only hope that Mr. Roosevelt will try to allay these passions rather than feed them with public criticisms of the "warlike" Powers—criticisms which may be merited in part, but which do not help to preserve that sober and realistic atmosphere in which American policy can best be formed.

Since his re-election, Mr. Roosevelt has been the target of an especially appealing form of flattery. The pronouncement from a French publicist, to the effect that "democracy has at last found a leader," is being supported by various persistent and subtle appeals from French and British sources.

Mr. Roosevelt probably will be tempted to assume the role of a world leader. It should not be necessary to emphasize that he holds no mandate, specific or implied, to assume the leadership of any democracy except our own. On the contrary, he is publicly committed to a policy of neutrality except where our own interests are directly concerned.

His Latin American policy is all to the good. Most, if not all, of the Western Hemisphere is in the zone of American naval supremacy. The preservation of a Pax Americana based on the status quo, defense of Latin American nations against aggressors from across the sea, and neutrality in foreign conflicts, depends, in the last analysis, upon American naval power.

The degree to which we might find it wise to curtail our trade with belligerents in the event of general wars abroad cannot be determined by any formula laid down in advance. The important thing is to prevent any attempt to preserve neutral rights from drawing us into war. We should be prepared to restrict our trade to the extent that is necessary to avoid war.

Fully as important is the prevention of a war boom in the United States. In this connection, insufficient attention has been paid to the fact that foreign investments in the United States are now approximately $2,500,000,000 greater than they were at the outset of the World War. If converted into purchases of supplies, as many of them would be in the event of major wars, they would give us the same kind of boom that we had in 1915 and 1916 and would sweep us along the same fatal channels toward credits and loans to maintain the boom when cash purchasing power had been exhausted.

The existence of this enormous foreign investment fund in the United States vitiates any attempt to prevent a war boom by requiring our customers to pay cash. Measures should be taken to segregate these funds, and, in the event of war, hold them as security for our outstanding loans and investments abroad and for payment of damages, if any, to American shipping.

Secretary Hull's reciprocal trade agreements also seem to me to have been insufficiently considered in the light of the possibility that they may increase the difficulties of remaining out of war rather than serve the cause of peace. This criticism does not apply to the Canadian and various Latin American agreements and probably to no others that have been executed so far, since the total volume of trade which they affect is not large. But the dangers of entanglement prescribe caution in the management of the tariff.

If general wars do not materialize during the next year or two, the dangers of another kind of diversion probably will increase. This is the resumption of foreign lending on a large scale. The pressure of surplus funds—augmented by the flow of foreign funds into this country—is working toward the reopening of the foreign loan market. Some of our international bankers are itching to begin.

The first flow of funds might be toward Latin America. Sound national policy, in my opinion, would restrict foreign loans and investments to those specifically needed for the development of resources or manufactured products for our own use. In view of the strongly international and orthodox character of Secretary Hull's economics, Mr. Roosevelt cannot be expected to adhere to so rigid a formula. But he has a primary responsibility, I believe, to prevent the repetition of anything like our war and post-war period of foreign lending. By failing to keep up the bars, he might temporarily achieve a slightly higher level of prosperity, but it would be at the cost of a more serious reckoning later.

Any Fool Can Drive a Car

From the Kansas City Journal-Post.

LICENSES are required for physicians, lawyers, plumbers and electricians. The city and the State hold that they should be properly equipped to follow their specialties. But anybody and everybody can sit at the wheel of a powerful motor car, a potential dealer of death and damage, with no check-up whatever on his qualifications.

A State drivers' license law is one of those pieces of legislation of undisputed merit which somehow are slow getting on the statute books. The argument is all heavily in favor of such a law, but the Missouri Legislature adjourns time after time without having enacted it. Steps are already being taken to introduce a license law in the forthcoming session. With proper attention from the House and Senate leaders, there should be no difficulty in passing it.

Several Eastern states have uniform license laws, drafted through the co-operation of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads, the National Safety Council, the American Automobile Association and other agencies. States where the law has been in force over a period of years report a reduction in traffic deaths. The National Safety Council estimates that 24,000 deaths and nearly 1,000,000 injuries would have been avoided between 1926 and 1935 had the national trend in traffic deaths corresponded to that of the states with standard license laws.

The "standard" states in 1935 reduced their traffic deaths 8 per cent under 1934. In these states, there were 17.5 deaths for every 10,000,000 gallons of gasoline consumed in the first six months of this year. There were 28 deaths in states with sub-standard licensing measures, while the rate ran as high as 29.2 deaths in states with no license laws. These figures are evidence enough.

The standard law requires a simple but thorough examination. The percentage of unsuccessful applicants is small, but it includes the incompetent drivers who are responsible for a large percentage of accidents. The law is an easily available weapon against the mounting traffic toll. Only short-sightedness prevents its use.

SIMPLE INAUGURATION.

From the Boston Evening Transcript.

IN accordance with the wishes of the President, the first of the January inaugurations will be a comparatively simple performance. The fact that it will come in midwinter is said to have much to do with the President's decision, but there have been years in Washington when the fourth of March did not resemble one of those rare days in June, when, if ever, come perfect days. There was, for example, that March 4 in 1909 when snow and hail were carried on the gale that swept the streets of the national capital as William Howard Taft assumed the presidency.

Apart from considerations of the weather, it may be that the country has outgrown the old-time inauguration. Torchlight processions play little part in modern political campaigning. Perhaps the old-time inaugural procession similarly belongs to the past, and with it the inaugural ball. There will not be one in January.

The President will, however, take the oath and deliver his address in the open. That ancient custom is not yet to be abandoned. But it may be asked how long it will last in this age of the radio, and especially with television just around the corner.

TEACHERS OF SPEECH END SESSIONS TODAY

Phonograph Recordings of Oral Reading Presented for Educators' Criticism.

Final sessions of the annual conventions of the National Association of Teachers of Speech and the American Speech Correction Association were held today at Hotel Statler. More than 500 educators have attended the meetings, which began Tuesday.

At a general morning session of the speech teachers a discussion was held on oral reading, professionally designated as oral interpretation. Phonograph recordings of oral reading were presented for criticism of members attending the meeting. Later, special sessions were held for the consideration of rhetoric and public speaking, development of courses of speech study and speech science.

The speech correction association concluded its convention with a morning meeting devoted to a discusison of the problems of technique and therapy in this field. At the afternoon meeting of the teachers' association the committee compiling a history and criticism of American oratory will report, and special meetings will be held for the discussion of educational problems in preparing teachers of speech.

Brain Wave Studies.

Brain wave studies in stutterers and non-stutterers were presented yesterday by Dr. Lee Edward Travis of the University of Iowa, at a joint meeting of the two associations.

Brain waves, he explained, are electrical nervous impulses in the brain that can be amplified and measured. By placing two electrodes against the scalp, he said, the electrical impulses are tapped to the amplifier, which sends more potent waves to an oscillograph that records the intensity of the waves with a moving line.

When a person is not concentrating the brain waves are large and rhythmic, he said, and they tend to increase as consciousness is impaired in the brains of both stutterers and non-stutterers; and to disappear when the non-stutterers talked. But they also increased slightly with stuttering, indicating consciousness might have been slightly, impaired at the time, he said.

Dr. Max A. Goldstein, head of the Central Institute for the Deaf, said at the meeting an incomplete compilation of statistics showed that out of a student population of about 50,000,000, approximately 4,000,000 had speech defects, 300,000 are crippled, 80,000 are deaf and 60,000 are blind. Providing for the educational needs of these defective children, he said, is the most important problem to be solved by teachers and scientists today.

Election of Officers.

At a business meeting, Dr. Goldstein was elected president of the American Speech Correction Association, to serve during 1937. Other officers elected were: Dr. Sara S. Hawk, director of the speech clinic of the Orthopedic Hospital, Los Angeles, vice-president; Dr. Bryng Bryngelson, University of Minnesota, treasurer, and Prof. Samuel D. Robbins, Emerson College, secretary.

The need for beginning early the speech training of children who are deaf or who never have learned to talk because their speech muscles are contracted, was emphasized in movies, phonograph records and addresses presented before members of the speech correction association yesterday at Central Institute for the Deaf.

Miss Mildred A. McGinnis, member of the faculty, pointed out that best results are achieved if training begins when the child is 4 years old. Parents frequently do nothing with their mute children because they do not know that speech training is possible even for cases that are seemingly hopeless, she said.

Movies were shown of a boy, 14, whose intelligent quotient rose 28 points in one year after he had received speech training. Another boy's score jumped from 69 to 96, almost normal, in three months.

Another Improvement Case.

Other movies were shown of a boy, 6, who could say only a few words when he entered Central Institute but who has improved to such an extent that he now can attend regular public school classes in the afternoon and continue his speech training in the morning. "If his training had begun at 4, he could now spend his entire day in a regular classroom," Miss McGinnis said.

Dr. Paul Zentay of Washington University, speaking on brain lesions and their relation to speech disorders, urged the speech teachers to keep informed on the latest studies of lesions by neurologists and psychologists. Greater co-operation must be developed between the teachers and the scientists who are working in related fields, he said.

PEGGY JOYCE'S FIANCE KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Dr. Vivian Jackson Thrown From Sleigh in Runaway at St. Moritz—She Is Hurt.

By the Associated Press.

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland, Dec. 31.—Vivian Jackson, fiance of Peggy Hopkins Joyce, died last night from an injury suffered in a sleighing accident.

Miss Joyce was slightly injured.

Jackson, 30-year-old professor of astro-physics in London University, died on the way to a hospital from injuries suffered when the horses pulling the sleigh in which he and Miss Joyce were riding yesterday became frightened and ran away. He was thrown out. His head struck a stone. His skull was fractured and he was hurt internally. The driver also was injured.

The accident occurred on the highway in front of a hotel in Celerina, two miles from St. Moritz.

Miss Joyce has been married four times. Her last marriage, dissolved in 1928 after four years, was to the Swedish Count, Gosta Morner. She announced in November she would be married to Jackson as soon as he and his wife were divorced. Mrs. Jackson followed this announcement by filing a suit for divorce in which she named Miss Joyce as co-respondent. Jackson owned a string of steeplechase horses which he rode himself. He presented a horse, Russet, to Miss Joyce.

Miss Joyce was informed today of Jackson's death. Although her condition was described as favorable, she was too weak to receive visitors.

JOURNALISM TEACHERS OPEN CONVENTION

Goals of Instruction in High Schools and Colleges Discussed by Speakers.

The twenty-fourth annual convention of the American Association of Teachers of Journalism opened today at Hotel Jefferson with breakfast meetings of regional groups. Following an address by Gayle C. Walker of the University of Nebraska, president of the association, speakers discussed goals for journalistic instruction in high schools, state colleges and small colleges.

The American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism, which began its convention yesterday, elected Lawrence W. Murphy of the University of Illinois president. J. L. Brumm, University of Michigan, was named vice-president; H. H. Herbert, University of Oklahoma, was elected secretary and treasurer, and Grant M. Hyde, retiring president was named to the executive committee.

Hyde told representatives of the schools yesterday that their curricula were now making educated men and women, instead of trying to teach the trade of journalism. It is no longer the function of journalism schools to teach things that can be learned in a newspaper office, but to teach background or cultural courses, he said.

MENTIONED FOR U. S. BENCH

J. C. Collet and B. G. Clark Suggested by Kansas City Star.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 31.—The Kansas City Star said today Judge John C. Collet of the Missouri Supreme Court "today loomed strongly as the possible compromise for recommendation for appointment to the new Federal judgeship in this state."

"Reports are that the first choice of Senator Clark is Boyle G. Clark of Columbia," said the Star. "It is extremely doubtful if important elements in the Kansas City organization would ever agree to the Columbia resident. It is not improbable that if the Federal choice should go to Collet that Governor Park's successor, Lloyd C. Stark, might be agreeable to naming the retiring chief executive to Judge Collet's place on the Supreme bench."

SOVIET-OUSTED SAVANT EXPLAINS HIS POSITION

Dr. Ipatiev in Chicago Says He Is Under Contract Here, So Can't Return.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—Dr. Vladimir N. Ipatiev, 68 years old, was informed here last night of his expulsion from the Russian Academy of Science for his failure to return to Russia to work. He said he intended to remain in America. A Commander of the Legion of Honor, a General in the Czar's army in charge of chemical warfare and a member of many scientific bodies, Dr. Ipatiev is now director of chemical research at the Universal Oil Products Co. and is on the staff of Northwestern University.

The Russian scientist was noticeably affected when shown a dispatch from Moscow telling of the expulsion of himself and of another scientist, Dr. Alexis Chichibabin, who is now in Paris, on charges of violating the new Russian Constitution by refusing to return to Russia.

Dr. Ipatiev said he had received a letter last October from the Academy asking that he return to Russia. He said he replied that he was under contract here and he could not break the contract.

"Furthermore," he said, "I told them my health and that of my wife, who is with me, is not good. I am an old man. It would be hard to make another change. Also I feel I can do more and better work here.

"I have had the most cordial relations with the Russian Academy ever since I left Russia in 1930 to come to the United States. During the last six years I have sent the Academy the results of my experiences here, and they have just published a Russian translation of my recent book, 'Catalytic Reactions at High Pressure.'"

CHANG GETS 10 YEARS BUT MAY BE PARDONED

Premier Chiang Presides at Trial of Former Rebel Who Held Him Prisoner.

By the Associated Press.

NANKING, Dec. 31.—Marshall Chang Hsueh-Liang was sentenced today to 10 years in prison and lost his civil rights for five years for leading a military rebellion and imprisoning Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, premier of the Nanking Government.

At the same time, foreign dispatches from Hankow told of new disturbances west of Sianfu, Shensi provincial capital which was the scene of the military warlord's detention.

Missionaries, including some Americans, were reported evacuating Sianfu for Fengsiang, 100 miles west of the Shensi capital.

News of the Marshal Chang's conviction was followed quickly by reports that the Central Government tomorrow would pardon the mutineer. Such action, a high official said, is "possible but not assured."

Chang, who rebelled in an attempt to force war with Japan and Communist elements in the Government, was taken to the courtroom under heavy guard.

Chiang presided at the trial of the man who only a week ago held him a captive.

Chang was returned to the residence of Dr. H. H. Kung, Minister of Finance, to be held under guard until the military court publishes its verdict.

Chang, who seized Chiang Dec. 12 at Sianfu, took entire blame for the mutiny. He explained he was moved by a desire to obtain freedom and equality for his country. He pledged continual loyalty to Chiang, for whom, he said, he had the highest respect.

Another Long Distance Rate Reduction in keeping with a long-standing Bell System policy

A series of rate reductions in the last ten years has substantially cut the cost of Long Distance telephone service.

Reductions have been made nearly every year since 1926, except in the depression years 1931-1934—in accordance with a long-standing Bell System policy to reduce Long Distance rates whenever improvements in telephony and the volume of business allow it to be done.

The latest reduction becomes effective January 15, 1937. Savings are possible on many, not all, interstate calls. Long Distance will give you the new rates after the change is effective.

FIGHT ON RECEIVER OF HERMAN BODY CO.

Suit Alleges Federal Action Is Meant to Defeat That in State Court.

Seven stockholders of the Herman Body Co., manufacturing trucks and trailers at 4420 Clayton avenue, today petitioned Federal Judge George H. Moore to vacate his order, made yesterday, appointing Herman E. Plew, president of the firm, as its receiver.

They charged that the bankruptcy suit, which caused the appointment of Plew, was instituted "through collusion, to defeat the judgment of the State court and the rights of stockholders." The judgment of the State court which was meant was the action of Circuit Judge Moses Hartmann, Monday, in appointing Henri Chouteau temporary receiver of the company, in a stockholders' receivership suit.

The stockholders said, in their petition to Judge Moore, that Plew was not qualified to conduct the company's affairs, and should not be permitted to serve. The creditors, requesting Plew's appointment yesterday, urged that Plew's supervision was necessary to complete a large amount of work on hand at the company's plant. Plew yesterday furnished bond for $30,000 as receiver.

Judge Moore set the hearing of the new petition for next Tuesday. The stockholders joining in the petition were Donald F. Rogers, Charles Mundel, Andrew Herres, Paul Jamboretz, Louis M. Hoffman, Rosa A. Hoffman and Gustav A. Hoffman.

The Federal Court receivership, if it is sustained, will supersede the State court proceeding. Chouteau has furnished a $50,000 bond as temporary receiver, and two attorneys were named by Judge Hartmann as his counsel. It the State court proceeding, the stockholders alleged that officers of the company had received excessive salaries and wasted money on "wild parties and salesmen's jamborees." In their petition to Judge Moore, the seven stockholders declare that the company now is without officers or directors.

Plew denied at the Circuit Court receivership hearing that the company was insolvent or that it had been mismanaged. Other officers testified the wages of employes had been increased recently and that there were $48,000 worth of orders on hand.

Creditors filing the bankruptcy suit yesterday and the amounts of their claims are: Christman Veneer & Lumber Co., 1746; Champ Spring Co., $357, and Wright Electric Co., $110. Their petition contends the company committed an act of bankruptcy by paying $51 to the United Lumber Co. Dec. 21, with the intention of preferring one creditor over another.

In applying for Plew's appointment the creditors pointed out that Chouteau is an office building manager and unfamiliar with the work of the Herman company, and said that unless Plew resumed control creditors would suffer loss.

ASKS THAT DROUTH FREIGHT RATES BE CONTINUED IN IOWA

Gov. Herring Says Approval of His Request Is Expected at Regional Conference Next Week.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31. — Gov. Clyde L. Herring of Iowa asked the Agriculture Department this week to seek continued reduced freight rates for the shipment of feed into a dozen Iowa drouth counties.

The Senator-elect said he was advised the matter would be taken up next week in a regional conference in Chicago and that he believed Iowa's request would be granted.

Herring turned over to the Social Security board for its consideration a copy of the unemployment insurance law passed by the Iowa General Assembly in special session last week. He said he planned to return to Iowa as soon as the board gives its decision. Opening of the State Legislature and inauguration of his successor will make it impossible for him to return to Washington until Jan. 15, he said.

MAN KILLED WHEN HE GOES TO AID OF HOLDUP VICTIM

Two Held at Poplar Bluff Said to Admit Robbery, But Accuse Each Other of Shooting.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Dec. 31.—Ernest E. Burke, 24 years old, of Bernie, Stoddard County, was shot and fatally wounded last night when he went to the aid of an aged man who had been slugged and robbed of a small amount of money.

Stoddard County officers arrested Charles Corn, 19, of Bernie, and Dremen Riddle, 21, of Campbell, and lodged them in jail here. They made signed statements admitting the robbery, according to Deputy Sheriff Roscoe Mayo, but each accused the other of having killed Burke.

Mayo said two men knocked down a man named Pipkins and robbed him of $3.50. Burke tried to stop the two men as they fled. One of them shot him. Burke died in a hospital here early today.

When threats of mob violence against the two prisoners were heard by officers at Bernie, they brought Corn and Riddle here for safe keeping.

GOODYEAR HEAD SAYS AKRON OUTPUT WILL BE CUT IN 1937

"Inevitable Result" of Loss of Business Through Labor Disturbances, Litchfield Declares.

AKRON, O., Dec. 31.—The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., which employs 14,000 workers in Akron, will curtail its production here in 1937, President P. W. Litchfield said today.

The company lost business by frequent sit-down strikes and other labor disturbances in its Akron plants, Litchfield said in a company publication. He cited "large expenditures to provide for equipment and production at places outside Akron," and added:

"The inevitable result of this is, unfortunately, that it will mean a much smaller production in our Akron tire factories in 1937 than we have enjoyed in 1936. It will mean further shortening of hours or a reduction by several thousands in the number of employes, or both."

RECORDS SET IN 1936 FOR HEAT AND COLD

No Other 12 Months in History of Weather Bureau Comparable.

The year 1936 was one that blew hot and cold. In fact, no other single year in the last century in St. Louis, has presented such protracted periods of severe cold and extreme heat, which included the coldest 30-day period in the Weather Bureau records for St. Louis, and broke the record for the previous highest summer average for June, July and August, with more than 300 deaths from heat prostration.

It was also a very dry year, ranking sixth in the last century. Precipitation was almost continuously deficient from January to August, and was again deficient in November and December. Frozen ground last January and February with snowfalls conserved moisture, but the mild, dry weather of March exhausted most of it.

Worst Drouth of History.

Rain in April and early May kept young crops growing, but by May 20 vegetation already was suffering from a lack of moisture. From the middle of June to the middle of September, one of the worst drouths of record prevailed. Heavy rains during the last part of September brought relief restoring water to ground around plant roots, revived lawns, pastures, shrubs, trees and conditioned the soil for fall planting and seeding.

The average temperature for the entire year was 57.3 degrees, or 1.1 above normal. The warmest year of record was 1921, with 60.1 degrees, and the coldest was 1875, with 52.8.

The total precipitation was 26.13 inches, or 11.38 inches less than normal. The wettest year was 1858 with 68.83 inches of rainfall, and the driest year was 1930 with 23.23.

Coldest Winters.

Coldest winters were in 1872-73, with an average temperature of 26.3 degrees, 1855-56 with 26.4 degrees, and last winter with 26.7, only fourtenths of a degree warmer than the coldest of record.

A period, however, from Jan. 22 to Feb. 22, was the coldest 30-day stretch in the Weather Bureau records for St. Louis, with an average of 12.4 degrees.

The absolute minimum last winter, 10 degrees below zero, was not a record breaker, as the lowest of all was 22 below on Jan. 5, 1884. It was the persistence of sub-zero temperatures that produced the 30-day record of low average.

Maximum Heat 109 Degrees.

Summer heat also was record-breaking with respect to high average, although the absolute maximum for the summer, 109 degrees, was one degree lower than in 1934.

The hottest period was July 5 to 16 with an average of 92.3 degrees, which is slightly higher than for the hottest 12-day period in 1934, another record-breaking year. For the three summer months, June, July, August, the average was 83.7 degrees, or 6.6 above normal. The previous highest summer average was 83.3 in 1934.

December temperature conditions ranged from quite cold during the first 10 days to mild from Dec. 24 to 27, and the month as a whole averaged much milder than normal. Average temperature was 38.9 degrees, or 4 above normal. Christmas day had a maximum of 65 degrees, the second highest of record for that day. The highest temperature was 66 degrees, yesterday, and the lowest was 9 degrees on Dec. 7.

Total snowfall this month was 4.6 inches. All of the measurable amount fell on Dec. 18, snow and ice remaining through Dec. 23.

During the year, the Mississippi River fell to record-breaking low stages, and reached the lowest free-water stage at St. Louis on Aug. 28, with 4.1 feet below zero on the gauge. The river was frozen over from last Feb. 10 to 21 with ice from 10 to 20 inches thick.

Duce's Paper Comments on Rise of Persecution in France.

By the Associated Press.

MILAN, Italy, Dec. 31.—An editorial in Premier Mussolini's newspaper, Popolo d'Italia, which gave warning of the rise of anti-Semitism in France, aroused speculation today.

Informed quarters expressed doubt whether the article was written by the Duce himself.

Louis Chapman Says He Got Set As Part Fee From Bond-Jumper.

A warrant charging Louis Chapman, 5133 Vernon avenue, contractor and professional bondsman, with receipt of stolen property was issued by the Circuit Attorney's office today. Chapman, 42 years old, was accused of having a $50 radio stolen from the home of Claude D. Speak, 5212 Vernon, in a burglary last Jan. 16.

Police announced Dec. 10 that they had found the radio at the Chapman residence. Chapman declared it had been given him as part of the fee for a bail bond he signed for Harry D. Meyers, a convicted burglar. A $2500 bond furnished for Meyers by Chapman was forfeited last May when Meyers failed to appear for trial. Chapman has been removed from the list of bondsmen acceptable to police.

DRIVER SENTENCED AFTER SIXTH ARREST THIS YEAR

Maurice Rothberg Fined $108, Gets 30 Days in Workhouse, Loses License for Traffic Offenses.

The driver's license of Maurice Rothberg, former president of the Rothberg-Gallant Parlor Furniture Co., was suspended for six months by Police Judge Edward M. Ruddy today, he was fined $108 and sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse by default on charges of speeding at 40 miles an hour and failing to keep to the right.

Judge Ruddy said that because of Rothberg's traffic record he would not follow his usual course of setting aside a default conviction on appearance of the defendant in court for another trial. Rothberg, he added, had 10 days within which to appeal. Police records show Rothberg had been arrested on traffic charges 17 times within the last nine years, five times in 1936, and had been fined seven times.

When he was arrested last Dec. 21, he said he lived at the Congress Hotel, 275 Union boulevard. It was said at the hotel today that he had checked out last week.

DOMESTIC COPPER PUT AT 12 CENTS BY MOST PRODUCERS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31. — The domestic price of copper was advanced today from 11⅝ cents to 12 cents by most of the leading producers. This is the highest quotation since June, 1930.

The boost was made effective by Kennecott Copper, Anaconda, American Smelting and Refining Co., American Metal Co. and others, trade circles reported.

No advance was made immediately by Phelps-Dodge interests, which are among the largest producers, but it was said this was due to the fact that the company has been virtually out of the market for some time owing to heavy forward sales.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 3 TO 6 POINTS LOWER

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Year-end liquidation and limited demand caused cotton to sag moderately today. AUTOMOTIVE AND STEEL SHARES OFF; SOME HIGHER Renewed Nervousness Over Strikes in the Motor Industry and Belated Adjustments for Income Tax Purposes Suggested as Factors.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—The stock market finished the year on a generally sliding trend today, with many of the leaders lacking the support which gave them a vigorous upward push Wednesday.

The failure of the list to step out with a rallying flourish was attributed principally to renewed nervousness over strikes in the motor industry. Belated adjustments of accounts for income-tax purposes also were said to have been a factor.

The trading volume attained sizable proportions in the morning, but tapered in late dealings. Transfers approximated 1,800,000 shares.

Brokers on the floor of the Stock Exchange started to celebrate New Year's eve about 2 p. m., and from then on little attention was paid to the list, as a whole.

Automotive and steel issues were in a declining mood throughout the session. At the same time a number of sugars, oils, rails and specialties were able to exhibit plus signs.

Rail loans and U. S. Government securities improved in the bond division. Commodities were uneven.

Share losers of fractions to around two points during the greater part of the proceedings included U. S. Steel common and preferred, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, J. I. Case, Western Union, American Telephone, Kennecott, U. S. Smelting, Standard Oil of N. J., Goodrich, Goodyear, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Paramount, Loew's, American Commercial Alcohol, Inspiration Copper, General Electric, Pullman, Armour, Canada Dry, U. S. Realty, American Locomotive and Electric Power & Light.

Registering gains at their best were Allied Chemical, Sharon Steel, Macy, Gimbel, Great Northern, Southern Railway, Worthington Pump, Fajardo Sugar, American Crystal Sugar, South Porto Rico, International Mining, Ohio Oil, Barber Co., Howe Sound, Newport Industries, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Philip Morris.

Wheat at Chicago was unchanged to off ⅜ of a cent a bushel and corn was up ¾ to 1¼.

A late downward slant was shown by shares of duPont, Republic Steel, International Nickel, Firestone, American Power & Light, Continental Can and Collins & Aikman.

Sterling was up 1-16 of a cent at $4.91 3-16 at mid-afternoon and the French franc was unchanged at 4.67¾ cents.

Cotton was down 15 to 30 cents a bale.

News of the Day.

Commission houses with foreign connections found interest in American Securities from abroad has been comparatively light lately. Advices from London, though, indicated stocks on that exchange were holding well.

The steels lost their vigor of yesterday notwithstanding optimistic figures on current mill output. The financial sector was weighing the spread of unionization dissension in the automobile field as a possible deterrent to steel activities.

Booming sugar futures attracted attention to shares of leading companies in this line. Because of a sharp rise in the raw commodity, there was talk of a further boost in the price of granulated.

Bolstering selected mining issues was another lift in the domestic copper rate from 11⅝ cents a pound to 12 cents, a new high for this quotation since June, 1930.

Overnight Developments.

Pleasing reading was found in the report of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York disclosing production and trade in the United States during 1936 pushed up 15 per cent above the total volume of the previous year. The largest percentage gain was in construction which jumped 48 per cent ahead of the 1935 aggregate.

Reflecting the heaviest holiday spending in several years, bank clearings for the five-day wek ended Dec. 30, Dun & Bradstreet estimated, registered an increase throughout the country of about 15 per cent over the corresponding period a year ago.

Carloading Figures Delay.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—The weekly carloadings report of the Association of American Railroads has been postponed from today until Monday, Jan. 4.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Raw sugar was firmer today and while the spot price remained unchanged at 3.90, shipment sugars advanced five points to new high records for the year.

Sales were confirmed of 81,000 bags of Philippines for February, March, April and May shipments at 3.95.

Futures were active, with prices advancing to new high records on a continuation of trade and commission house buying encouraged by the further upturn in the outside markets.

The market opened two to three points higher, reacted to about the previous close under scattered holiday realizing but firmed again with final prices at or near the best and one to four points net higher.

Sales were 23,200 tons. May contracts after advancing to 3.05 sold off to 3.02 and closed at 3.04, while September closed at 3.05.

Refined was firm but prices were unchanged at 4.80 for fine granulated, as notices of advances were rescinded, with a moderate inquiry reported.

WHEAT MIXED, CORN HIGHER AT THE CLOSE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—Year-end profit-taking today more than wiped out 1⅝ cents overnight advance of wheat prices.

Only scattered buying of Canadian wheat for export was in evidence. Late reports said the weather in Argentina had cleared and that conditions in Australia were more favorable.

At the close, wheat was unchanged to ⅜ lower, May $1.35⅛ @ ¼, July $1.18⅛ @ ⅜; corn ¾ @ 1¼ up, may new $1.08⅛ @ ⅜, July new $1.05; oats at ⅛ decline to ¼ advance, and provisions unchanged to 15 cents higher.

Extraordinary new rainfalls reported in Argentina, seve ninches at some places, and implying severe crop damage, pushed wheat price astrongly upward at times early tdoay.

An outstanding feature was that Liverpool and Winnipeg wheat markets overtopped the season's previous peak quotations. With a triple holiday ahead and with European political conditions still unsettled, buyers of wheat were in a majority much of the day, and sellers scarce except those seeking to cash in on profits. Reactions here from top prices were, as a consequence, mostly fractional.

Abrupt suspension of trading in December wheat at Liverpool ahead of the usual hour was announced. Traders there who were short of wheat to fill December contracts agreed to settle at the maximum price reached, preferring not to risk further skyrocketing before the year end. Liverpool wheat, due ½ @ ¾ of a cent higher, closed 2¼ @ 2⅝ cents up, after soaring 3⅞ cents. Corn, although today outdoing previous high price records, showed only moderate fresh gains, with May new at $1.08½. Profit taking acted as a curb on extreme upturns. Rye and oats paralleled the action of corn.

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 23,589,000 bushels, corn 5,998,000. Open interest in wheat was 100,896,000 bushels, and in corn 42,466,000.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Dec. 31.—Wheat and corn futures were unquoted at outset.

Winnipeg wheat opened 1c to 1⅝c higher and early was ¾ @ 1¼c up.

Liverpool wheat closed 1½d to 1⅜d higher after opening 1⅝d to 1¾d up.

ST. LOUIS CASH GRAIN.

In the cash grain market today wheat was 1¼c higher; corn 1@2c higher and oats 1c higher.

Sales made on the floor of the exchange were as follows:

WHEAT—No. 1 red winter, $1.45.

CORN—No. 2 mixed, $1.12; No. 3 mixed $1.08½ @ 1.11; No. 3 yellow $1.11@1.12; No. 4 yellow, $1.10½; No. 5 yellow, $1.08.

OATS—No. 2 white, 55@55¾c; No. 3 white, 54c; sample grade white, 53c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 4500 bushels, compared with 18,000 a week ago and 34,500 a year ago (two days), included 1 car local and 2 through. Corn receipts, which were 61,600 bushels, compared with 129,000 a week ago and 55,500 a year ago (two days), included 29 cars local and 12 through. Oats receipts, which were 20,000 bushels, compared with 18,000 a week ago and 26,000 a year ago (two days), included 7 cars local and 3 through.

BEAUMONT HALTED BY BROTHERS' DEFENSE

TONIGHT'S PAIRINGS YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

TONIGHT'S PAIRINGS.
Championship Final.
Christian Brothers High vs. McKinley, 8:30 p. m.
Consolation Final.
Webster Groves vs. Maplewood, 7:30 p. m.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS.
Championship Semifinals.
McKinley 54, Herculaneum 16.
Christian Brothers High 28, Beaumont 22.
Consolation Semifinals.
Webster Groves 31, South Side Catholic High 26.
Maplewood 29, Normandy 27.

By Reno Hahn.

McKinley's fast-breaking team will try to break through the tight defense of Christian Brothers' High tonight in the championship and final game of the Normandy High School invitational basketball tournament. In a preliminary game, Webster Groves will play Maplewood for the consolation championship, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

In the semifinal games last night, McKinley raced through Herculaneum's defense for a 54-16 victory, and C. B. C. stopped Beaumont's attack for a 28-22 triumph. In the consolation semifinals, Webster Groves defeated South Side Catholic High, 31-26, and Maplewood broke a 27-27 tie in the last 15 seconds of play for a 29-27 victory.

The odds seem to be with C. B. C., for when the two teams met earlier in the season, the Brothers' tight defense enmeshed the livelier McKinley attack and C. B. C. won, 31-21.

McKinley's team seems to have improved since that game, however, and it may have enough speed to break through that tight defense. The Gold Bugs will be at a disadvantage in height.

How Brothers Won.

Both teams were impressive in last night's victories.

C. B. C. stopped Beaumont's vaunted attack by preventing the Blue Jackets from working in for close shots. At the same time, the success of the Brothers' long shots enabled them to score enough points for the victories, and those long shots were necessary, because Beaumont also had a good defense.

Jim Droege, guard, was chiefly responsible for the success of his team, for he broke up numerous scoring threats and did most of the work in retrieving the ball after Beaumont had taken shots at his basket.

McKinley appeared to have found even greater speed than the already amazing swiftness that has characterized its games in this tourney. Its fast pace swept aside Herculaneum's resistance, and after the first half the outstate team gave up the unequal struggle. Herculaneum scored only two points in the second half.

The speed afoot of the McKinley players was matched by their deftness of hand and accuracy of eye. Bill and Paul Housman and Joe Singler did most of the scoring, Singler netting 16 points, Bill 14, and Paul 12.

In the consolation games, Maplewood and Normandy waged an even battle for most of the game. Maplewood took a lead near the end of the game, 27-25. Art Schumacher of Normany was fouled while shooting. Only 29 seconds remained to be played.

Schumacher calmly stepped up to the line twice and both times sank his free throws.

Strategy That Failed.

But his effort went for nought S. Benson of Maplewood followed up a shot by a teammate and tipped the ball in for a goal. That didn't end the game, for after the following tipoff, Herb Van Deven of Normandy was fouled while shooting. Only three seconds remained.

Van Deven missed his first try. He then deliberately missed the second attempt to give a teammate a chance to score a goal. The plan almost succeeded, for Vernon Tracy tapped the ball toward the basket but he didn't hit it quite hard enough and it failed to go over the rim into the hoop.

Webster's team surprised with its aggressiveness in overcoming the superior height of South Side Catholic High's players. After the South Siders took an 8-3 lead in the first part of the opening quarter, Webster dominated play and was never threatened.

Champion Ross Is Suspended by New York Officials

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31. BARNEY ROSS, world's welterweight champion, was placed on the ineligible list by the New York Boxing Commission yesterday and will remain there until he defends his title against St. Ceferino Garcia, hard-hitting Filipino. Sam Pian, Ross' manager, was suspended along with the champion.

Ross agreed to take on Garcia within 60 days after his fight with Izzy Jannazzo and both the champion and Garcia were forced to put up $1500 forfeits for the title match. Ross, however, has turned down an offer of 40 per cent from the Garden for a Garcia fight and until he decides to meet the Filipino he will be barred from boxing in New York State.

The Boxing Commission will also ask the Illinois Commission to slap a similar suspension on Ross.

ALBANY CLUB'S SALE TO GIANTS IS APPROVED BY LEAGUE'S HEAD

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—The New York Giants bought the Albany baseball club of the International League again yesterday—but this time officially. The reported price was $50,000.

The papers were signed before a crowded gallery of newspaper men and photographers, after an hour's conference between Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants, and Joe Cambria, owner of the Albany club, and President Frank Shaughnessy of the International League.

At one stage of the conference, Stoneham threatened to call everything off, but the end of the session found everybody in a friendly mood. All the details of the transfer announced previously were verified by the final terms of the sale. The Giants will transfer the club to Jersey City.

By terms of the sale, the Giants took over the club, lock, stock and barrel. Sixteen players went in the deal, among them Smead Jolley, who once cost the Chicago White Sox a very pretty penny.

Will Be for the Better.

President Shaughnessy, who seemed as irritated over the delay in completing the deal as Stoneham, was elated. He predicted one of the most successful years in the history of the International League in 1937.

"Naturally, we hated to move out of Albany," said Shaughnessy, "but movement of the franchise to Jersey City under Giant ownership is bound to be for the better. Jersey City always has been a red hot baseball city. With the new Roosevelt Stadium seating 32,500, it is bound to be one of our best franchises.

"Everything is all set now. Syracuse and Toronto have overcome their difficulties, I believe, and we should have one of our best years

Glenn Morris Chosen For Sullivan Award; Jesse Owens Second

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Sports observers in some quarters today wondered just how much Glenn Morris had Jesse Owens to thank for his Sullivan award victory. The eyebrow-raising was occasioned by the belief Owens' decision to turn professional after the Olympic Games and his several run-ins with Amateur Athletic Union officials may have partially influenced the voting.

The award went to the world-record breaking Olympic decathlon winner by the slim margin of 93 points—1106 to 1013 for Owens, Ohio State's great Negro who won three individual Olympic crowns and recently was named the outstanding athlete of the year in the annual Associated Press poll.

Six hundred sports figures in all parts of the country ballotted on 10 athletes, men and women, nominated for the award.

The award — officially it's the James E. Sullivan Memorial—was announced last night by the A. A. U. by it, Morris is named the athlete, "who by his performance, example and influence as an amateur and a man, has done the most during the year to advance the cause of sportsmanship."

Unknown a Year Ago.

It caps an astonishing career in which the former Colorado automobile salesman skyrocketed from virtual obscurity to the top of the amateur athletic heap in one brief track season. A year ago he was little known outside his own area in Fort Collins, Colo., where he was regarded as a fair hurdler and a good football player in his days at end for Colorado State.

He shot into prominence in setting a world's record for the decathlon in the Olympic tryouts at Milwaukee early last summer. He followed by taking the Olympic title at Berlin with a 7900-point total to shatter his own mark and post a new all-time high.

Recently Morris gave up automobile selling at Denver to take a position with a radio broadcasting company in New York. Reached there today, he was astonished to learn of his victory.

"If I won," he asked, "What happened to Owens? I thought he'd get it."

JOE LOUIS AND PASTOR SIGNED FOR FIGHT IN EAST, JAN. 29

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—All difficulties standing in the way of Joe Louis' proposed bout with Bob Pastor were ironed out today and the heavyweights will meet in a 10-round bout in Madison Square Garden Jan. 29.

The last stumbling block was removed when Mike Jacobs, who holds an option on Louis' services, was given an option on Pastor's services in the event the New York youngster should upset Louis. Pastor knocked out huge Ray Impellitierre in seven rounds in his last start.

The Pastor-Louis bout will be promoted jointly by the Garden and Jacobs' Twentieth Century Club. Louise will receive 40 per cent of the receipts, Pastor 20 per cent. The remainder will be split equally by the promoters.

Jacobs said he expected contracts for the bout would be signed not later than Monday.

JAMES CASEY, FORMER MAJOR LEAGUER, DIES

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Dec. 31.—James Casey, who played baseball for the Brooklyn Dodgers, Detroit Tigers and Chicago Cubs between 1899 and 1910, mostly at third base, is dead. A guard at the Municipal Courts Building here for several years, he died at his home last night.

COLUMBIA FIVE WINS THIRD GAME IN CUBA

HAVANA, Dec. 31.—The Columbia University basketball team remained all-victorious in Cuba's international sports week last night by downing Athletic Club of Cuba, 52 to 22, for its third straight win.

Previously the Lions had defeater the Hispano Club and the Vedado Club.

Louisiana State 1-4 Choice to Win From Santa Clara Eleven

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 31.—It'll be power against power when Louisiana State's Tigers and Santa Clara's Broncos settle their football argument in the Sugar Bowl tomorrow.

These New Year's day opponents, each boasting rugged lines and husky, hard-blocking backs, will meet on Tulane's gridiron before approximately 42,000 fans. The kickoff is scheduled for 1:30 p. m. St. Louis time.

Indications pointed to low-scoring, defensive combat between two of the nation's strongest lines. In eight games of the regular season Santa Clara gave up but 22 points and Louisiana State's defense yielded 34.

The Tigers of L. S. U. were conceded a pre-game edge largely because of a good passing threat.

Great Passing Combination.

On the tossing end of Louisiana's attack will be a lanky blond-haired fullback, Pat Coffee, whose deadshot passes counted often for the Tigers. Chief receiving terminal will be all-America end Gaynell Tinsley, who scored 48 points by snagging forwards.

The two squads were ready for their final workouts this afternoon. Santa Clara's gridders were en route to Bay St. Louis for their last drill and a quiet spot for the New Year's eve celebrating. Louisiana State's team remained in Baton Rouge.

Coaches Bernie Moore of the Tigers and Lawrence (Buck) Shaw of the Broncos planned to bring their squads to New Orleans shortly before game time tomorrow. Both outfits were reported in top condition.

While rain fell steadily in New Orleans last night, the Weather Bureau predicted clear and colder for the game.

Moore hopes for a dry field because he feels his passing attack is the "dynamite" needed to open up the defenses and make his running plays work well against a team as tough defensively as Santa Clara.

The betting odds listed the South-

Two Texas Christian Stars Out Of Game With Marquette Eleven

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 31.—Coach Leo (Dutch) Meyer of Texas Christian University worried about a scarcity of ends and injuries last night as football fans looked forward to an aerial battle between T. C. U. and Marquette in the Cotton Bowl football game here New Year's day.

L. D. Meyer, the coach's nephew, will replace the injured Wallie Walls at left end, leaving only Charlie Needham, a veteran, as a reserve wingman.

Bob Harrell, elusive left wingback, definitely will not play and it is doubtful Harold McClure, best running back on the Horned Frog squad, will.

Forecasts of clear skies, accompanied by falling temperatures, boosted fans' hopes of seeing a passing duel between "Slingin' Sam" Baugh of the Christians and Ray (Buzz) Buivid, Marquette's all-American.

Each squad gave its hocus-pocus offense a thorough going over in yesterday's final heavy workouts.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 31.—Weather as unsettled as the color of the jerseys to be worn by Pittsburgh and Washington threatened today to throw a monkey wrench into the football machinery of the Rose Bowl classic.

Rain soaked the big bowl, also everything around, yesterday and the end is not in sight.

If the field is heavy tomorrow it will make the mooted question of the color of the jerseys unimportant—mud will make purple, blue or white equally obscure.

The Jersey Question.

The jersey question has been debated for the first time in Rose Bowl history. Each contestant expected to appear in its colors, blue for Pitt and purple for Washington. Each suggested the other wear white with neither inclined to turn its back on tradition.

Pittsburgh reached Pasadena last night ready to work out in the Rose Bowl this afternoon but may have to forego this last minute preparedness move to save the turf.

Husky and Panther practiced yesterday in a downpour.

The sun shone on most of their games during the regular season but each team played once in heavy precipitation. Pittsburgh lost and Washington won.

Opinion was divided as to the effect of a wet field. Under the Warner system used by Pitt the ball is handled more than in the Notre Dame system of Washington and a wet surface might throw the timing awry. Others suggested, however, that a wet ball makes forward and lateral passing hazardous. Pitt passes only when it has to. Washington likes to pass.

Odds were even or 4 to 5 and take your choice. The change in weather did not change opinions the game was a toss-up.

The backs may not be able to keep their feet but, rain or shine, slow or fast, two great lines will come to grips.

Many Sophomores.

Both teams will use many sophomores before the day is done. Pitt will start half a dozen youngsters. Coach Jimmy Phelan will favor veterans at the kickoff but he will have talented rookies in before the contest is very old.

Both squads are in shape, the Bowl is sold out. All that is needed for a perfect day is a touch of sun.

Neither Pitt nor Washington ever has won a Rose Bowl game, Washington has been tied by Navy, 14-14, and beaten by Alabama, 20-19.

Pittsburgh's record: 1928—Stanford 7, Pitt 6; 1930—U. of Southern California 47, Pitt 14; 1933—U. of Southern California 35, Pitt 0.

Pitt and Washington dodged showers yesterday to put the final touches on their conditioning, Dr. Jock Sutherland putting the Golden Panthers through a final drill before abandoning an 11-day training camp at San Bernardino and coming on over to Pasadena.

Turning Over That New Leaf.

IT WON'T be long now until we turn over that leaf labeled 1937 and begin a new series of entries. Time was when this implied a change in behavior, for the better. You made "good resolutions" and kept most of them—until your hangover disappeared.

Those were pre-automobile days. New Year's eve was a mere warmup for New Year's day, when young bloods pooled together, engaged a sea-going hack, and spent the day touring from home to home, where "open house" was the order of the day.

Egg-nog was the drink. If you have never spent a New Year's day among the egg-nog, you don't know how serious next-day resolutions can become. You mean it when you put out that "never again!"

I Hereby Resolve:

HOWEVER, there is some merit in resolutions, particularly those not begotten of post-New Year toxic conditions.

We could all make a few "resolves"and do a good job by observing them. For 1937 we suggest some "be it resolved" thoughts as follows:

TOM YAWKEY—Not me! You can't sell me any more baseball lemons!

JUDGE LANDIS—I hereby resolve never to resign.

BROKERS AND AGAIN OVER BILLION

Federated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—Loans on exchange brokers and dealers, held by reporting member banks in New York were reported by the Federal Reserve to have totaled $1,080,000,000 for the week ending yesterday, as against $1,000,000 for the week, and the corresponding week a year ago $1,014,000,000.

COACHES TO INVESTIGATE MENACE OF FOOTBALL GAMBLING

REPORT STATES WAGERING WAS "UNBELIEVABLE" IN 1936 SEASON

Changes in Rules Discussed but Few Alterations Suggested—28 Deaths Attributed to Gridiron Game

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Overshadowing even such perennial bugaboos as subsidization and rule changes, the rise of gambling in college football has collegiate sports leaders worried.

This "serious menace," as the nation's grid coaches termed it, provided the outstanding aftermath today to the meetings of college athletic bigwigs, which reached a new high in "deploring" this-and-that about extra-curricular features of the game.

Coaches Will Act.

For the first time the coaches are going to do something about gambling. After hearing a committee report that more money was bet on the grid game last season than on horse racing, an investigation was voted.

Harry Kipke, Michigan coach and new president of the Football Coaches' Association of America, will name a committee to make the study and submit recommendations at the 1937 convention.

Among the officers elected with Kipke was Harry Stuhldreher of Wisconsin, as first vice-president, an office which will automatically elevate him to the presidency next year.

The gambling evil, earlier deplored by the convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, was brought into the coaches' meeting in a report from the Public Relations Committee headed by Gus Dorais of Detroit.

"The increase in gambling last year," this report said, "was unbelievable. Professional gamblers are interested in a big way."

Although there was no discussion, the coaches agreed later that gambling has assumed risky proportions.

There was particular talk of that portion of the report which said "gamblers send men around to get inside information on a team's preparations, player injuries, etc."

Another report, from the committee headed by Bob Higgins of Penn State, asked whether the coaches who make weekly public predictions during the season, are not helping to foster gambling interest. The N. C. A. A. already has opposed this practice by coaches. Higgins' report classed this action as "borderline ethics."

As usual, the N. C. A. A. talked a great deal, but did little about the athletic subsidization problem, agreeing it should be left up to the individual colleges. The association also announced opposition to post-season games.

Rule Changes Unlikely.

The coaches went into considerable detail on the rules, but decided the game's code will need little alteration for next season. They agreed, generally, there was no need to change the pass interference rule.

A six-year survey of football fatalities, submitted by Floyd B. Eastwood of New York, said 28 deaths were directly attributable to the game this year, and that there will continue to be 25 to 30 annually unless the high school fatality toll is reduced. There were 14 high school deaths last season.

GOPHER HOCKEY TEAM DEFEATS DARTMOUTH

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 31.—Retaining a lead gained in the first three minutes of play, the University of Minnesota hockey team defeated Dartmouth of Hanover, N. H., last night, 3 to 1. The victory gave Minnesota the two-game series, the Gophers having beaten the Indians, 2 to 0, last night, in St. Paul.

The Gophers were never in danger after Bjorck netted the puck at 3:57 in the first period. The first tally was followed by an unassisted score by Carlson. Taft netted the puck for the third score after taking it from Carlson.

Dartmouth's single score was made by Costello, unassisted, in 14:56 of the last stanza.

"BITSY" GRANT AND PARKER TO PLAY IN FINAL

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 31.—Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta, and young Frankie Parker of Lawrenceville, N. J., stroked their way into the final of the annual Sugar Bowl tennis tournament yesterday.

The final match between Grant and Parker, scheduled for this afternoon, was postponed until Saturday afternoon on account of rain.

Grant eliminated the defending champion, Arthur Hendrix, of Lakeland, Fla., 6—3, 8—6, while Parker advanced with an easy 6—1, 6—2 victory over Martin Buxby of Miami, Fla.

John McDiarmid of Chicago and Hendrix advanced to the final in the doubles by eliminating J. Gilbert Hall of East Orange, N. J., and Parker, in a close battle, 13—11, 7—5.

The other semifinal match was not completed because of darkness. When a halt was called, the Sutter Brothers of New Orleans, Ed and Ernie, were leading Buxby and Vernon Marcum of Lakeland, Fla., 8—6, 4—2.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

FAIRMONT, W. Va.—Charles Krist, 200, Charleston, W. Va., and Joe Melinkey, 189, Cleveland, drew (10).

West Frankfort An Easy Winner At Mount Vernon

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Dec. 31.—A West Frankfort High School team that was good enough to roll up a surprising total of 59 points in winning its first round game from Carlyle last night is looked upon as a favorite to repeat today and reach tomorrow night's final in the holiday basketball tournament here. Carlyle was completely outclassed and was held to eight points.

Anna-Jonesboro team also flashed a high-class scoring combination in beating Metropolis, 40 to 18, and Carmi knew how to find the basket in winning from Mount Vernon, 35 to 16. Benton, on the other hand, had a lot of trouble with Sandoval in winning, 14 to 8, and Johnston City had no easy time with Fairfield but won, 29-17.

"DARK HORSES" SHOW FORM IN JUNIOR TENNIS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31. — The current national junior indoor tennis championships, heading into the quarter-finals today, has come up with a pair of Eastern "dark horses" to threaten the predicted sweep of Kenyon College's Midwestern aces, Don McNeil and Morey Lewis.

While most of the headlines have gone to McNeil and Lewis, these two—Alter Milberg of New York and Isadore (Izzy) Bellis of Philadelphia—have gone along whipping their scheduled opponents handily.

Bellis, whose eighth-seeded ranking is due largely to the fact he won the national boys' title a year ago, hasn't lost a set in four rounds of competition. His latest victim, Walter Meserole of William and Mary College and New York, went down yesterday, 6—0, 6—4, to qualify the Quaker City contender to meet third-seeded Melvin Lapman of New York today.

Milberg, although unseeded, provided one of the tournament's few upsets yesterday in trouncing Billy Gillespie of Ossining, N. Y., and Atlanta, 7—5, 7—5. Today he meets his biggest test in McNeil, who found Henry Daniels of New York an easy victim yesterday, 6—1, 6—3.

Lewis, the Texarkana (Tex.) contender from Kenyon, meets Joseph Fishback of New York today, but should stay in the running. The only other player regarded as a strong contender, Marvin Kantrowitz of New York, faces Charles Mattman, New York.

SLAPNICKA WANTS FELLER TO PASS UP COACHING SCHOOL

CLEVELAND, Dec. 31. — Announcement that Pitcher Bob Feller had agreed to be a tutor at Ray Doan's baseball school in Hot Springs, Ark., opening Feb. 15, has caused a bit of consternation in the Cleveland baseball club office.

President Alva Bradley said yesterday that C. C. Slapnicka, his executive assistant, and Manager Steve O'Neill both had urged the rookie pitching sensation to cancel his engagement as a teacher and save his arm for the Indians' Southern training trip.

The Cleveland executives are fearful lest, in his inexperience, Feller will damage his pitching arm if he is allowed to work without careful supervision of his activities.

DIXON, HALFBACK OF MISS. STATE, LOST FOR GAME WITH DUQUESNE

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 31.—Mississippi State last night lost the Orange Bowl services of a star halfback, Victor Dixon, stricken with appendicitis.

Taken to a hospital soon after the Maroons arrived yesterday for the New Year's day game against Duquesne, Dixon was operated on last night. He was reported as resting well after surgery.

Maj. Ralph Sasse, the Mississippi State coach, herded his charges to the scene of the battle and appeared slightly miffed when workmen shooed him away to a nearby baseball diamond. The coach ordered all outsiders from the field.

"Recent drills were not quite what we'd have liked owing to bad weather," he said, "but the boys are ready, both mentally and physically."

Coach John (Little Clipper) Smith of Duquesne withdrew Boyd Brumbaugh, halfback, from practice and announced William Dillon would take his place on the first team. Brumbaugh has been suffering from tonsilitis.

Dissatisfied with the results of forward pass plays, Smith said his squad was not in as good condition as earlier in the season.

To Play Exhibition Game.

The Giants will celebrate ownership of its second and largest farm by playing the first game in the stadium against Jersey City, known as the Skeeters, a day or two before the opening of the regular 1937 season.

"We intend to do everything possible to make a pennant winner out of Jersey City," said Stoneham. "We want to keep the crops in good shape on our big farm."

Jackson Asks More Time.

WALDO, Tex., Dec. 31.—Travis Jackson, veteran infielder of the New York Giants, yesterday confirmed the report that he had been offered the job of player-manager for the Albany club of the International League.

The Giants purchased the Albany franchise from Joe Cambria and will transfer it to Jersey City.

Jackson said he received the offer in a phone conversation with Horace Stoneham, president of the Giants. He added that he was well pleased with it, but had asked for more time to consider.

St. Louis Team Plays in Title Tourney in East

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—New York's national intercity table tennis team titleholders will seek to run their reign to three straight years starting tomorrow at the Lake Shore Athletic Club.

The Easterners' stiffest opposition is expected to show up in the St. Louis squad, headed by Bud Blattner, and the Indianapolis team, with Jimmy McClure, the country's top-ranking player, as its leader. Chicago, Detroit, Kansas City and Newark, N. J., will complete the field for the tournament which closes Sunday.

Greetings.

RING out the old, ring in the new Ring happy bells across the snow:
The year is going, let him go;
Ring out the false, ring in the true.

Ring out the grief that saps the mind,
For those that here we see no more;
Ring in redress to all mankind.
—Alfred Tennyson.

RING out the men who pull the strings
Behind the throne while puppets dance;
Ring out the warring combatants
Ring out the self-appointed kings.

Ring out the wrinkles and the frowns
Ring in the hope, ring out the fears,
Ring in a pennant for the Browns.

Ring in a flag for Sammy's Cards,
Ring in a truce with Dizzy Dean;
Ring out the rancor and the spleen—
To one and all our kind regards.

Ring in a city clean and bright;
A Happy New Year, every one.

Strange as it may seem a football player will go through a gruelling schedule, a suicide schedule if you will, and go into the final game in top form. But it is almost unbelievable how much a cross-country trip in a de luxe streamlined train will take out of him.

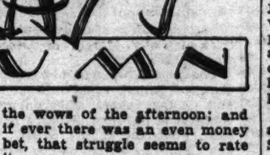
In fact they usually take it in two bites. By the time they reach Tombstone, Ariz., they are in such a grave condition that the coach hardly knows whether they will pull through or not.

"National League Umpires Get Raise."



THE umpires all received a raise,
Although they get but scanty praise,
For like a man that's over plump,
Nobody seems to love an ump.

The laborer is worthy of his hire. There has to be a base fiddle in every orchestra and an umpire in every ball game.

The base fiddler never plays a solo nor does the umpire get a turn at bat but they are both important factors in the game.

Old Santa Claus calls 'em as he sees 'em when he starts filling the 12 stockings at "Red" Ormsby's house.

See by the papers where there is a movement on foot to bar women from participation in the Olympic track and field games. Strangely enough they put their o. k. on swimming, the sport which caused them so many embarrassing moments.

Connie Mack says he hopes he'll never have to sell another ball player. To which Tom Yawkey adds a fervent amen.

The Day of Bowls.

THE Rose Bowl, the Orange Bowl, the Cotton Bowl and the Sugar Bowl will share public interest with the flowing bowl, tomorrow, when national radio hook-ups begin broadcasting the final football games of the season, the first of the New Year.

The situation has not materially altered in the past week, and there is no reason to believe that any of the experts will be more than 50 per cent right on the big four contests of the day.

The Washington Huskies are slight favorites over the Pittsburgh eleven, although why is rather hard to discover. Many football men profess to believe that Pitt should be choice over the Washington team; but since both suffered defeat, at the hands of teams which themselves were beaten, any other odds than even money would seem to be forced. The elevens will be combatting on neutral ground, which makes it as fair for one as for the other.

By no possible construction can either of these elevens be given first place as No. 1 eleven of the country, in event of victory.

This was one year in which the won and lost columns proved a total loss as indicating a national champion. True, Louisiana State University is unbeaten; but its schedule was not so severe as that of other elevens in the national championship race.

If L. S. U. defeats Santa Clara in the Sugar Bowl, it will still have beaten an eleven that already has suffered defeat by a previously beaten team.

One Sure-Shot.

ONE of the four games mentioned, which appears to be easy to pick, is the Orange Bowl game at Miami, with Duquesne playing Mississippi State. Duquesne really has a formidable eleven, this year. Mississippi State is no weakling, but on comparative records is the underdog.

You can get only "7 to 10 and take your pick" for the Marquette-Texas Christian game, which will see some sparkling overhead plays on both sides.

The East-West battle between picked elevens should be one of the wows of the afternoon; and if ever there was an even money bet, that struggle seems to rate it.

About 200,000 fans will pay more than $600,000 to see the curtain come down on the collegiate football season, tomorrow, not to rise again until late next September.

Ring Out the Old.

OLD 1936 is about to slip his cable and make room for Baby 1937. The old year, while it produced some amazing and astonishing surprises, really did a good job of "coming back." The year now passing saw a really important uplift in all sports, economically.

But 1937 is likely to prove even more happy for those who promote sports and pastimes, professional and amateur.

The return of the million dollar fight gate is forecast perhaps on June 3, when Braddock and Schmelling fight and certainly in September, when the winner is expected to face the Negro sensation, Joe Louis.

Organized baseball, encouraged by an improvement in attendance last year, is looking forward to even better times in the coming 12 months. That's because the minor leagues increased in number and prosperity last year and the weaker major league clubs are taking steps to strengthen their fences and make a better showing.

In professional tennis, the field looks so good to professional backers that TWO groups are now in the field. The first big action will take place January 6 at New York when Perry and Vines, two outstanding figures in tennis today, will meet in Madison Square Garden as a part of a show in which Lott, Tilden and others will also compete.

Everywhere throughout the country boxing is coming back, both professionally and with the amateurs. Football, track and other college sports all showed big gains at the gate. As far as the sporting field is concerned, 1936 lived long enough to see the depression definitely broken.

Going Good in St. Louis.

HERE in St. Louis we have prospered with the rest of the sport world. Professional fighting has slowly made its way out of the Slough of Despond in which for a couple of years it had been mired.

Baseball, according to Cardinal records, scored its second largest paid home attendance ever recorded by a National League club in this city. Next year, with another pennant contender certain for the Cardinals and night baseball promised by both local clubs, we look for attendance figures to be surpassed.

The Browns will have an improved team and will do much better both at the gate and in the field than last summer. Rogers Hornsby thinks so at any rate. Frankie Frisch would name his club the pennant winner now if he just knew whether Brother Paul's arm would be OK next season and whether Dizzy Dean will be in the lineup another year.

Both of those important features are still unsettled.

By Dent McSkimming

If the Shamrock club were fortunate enough to have all 17 men on its roster fit and ready for tomorrow's exhibition match with the Slavia-Bartunek club of Cleveland it still would have no reason to feel certain of the outcome. And with McNab, Watson and Strattman on the injured list, the outlook is definitely gloomy.

"This Bartunek club, like our own team, is preparing for a national cup game to be played 10 days from now and it probably will be turning loose all its power against us," said Alec McNab, manager of the Shamrocks. "They gave us a stiff argument in an early season game and it looks from their lineup as though they will be a stronger team this time. We really are in a tough spot with so many players injured."

In Cup Play.

Bartunek is drawn against the strong Graphite Bronze club of Cleveland in a first round national cup game to be played Jan. 10. The Shamrocks must go to Detroit on that day to oppose the Chevrolet club. The winner of the Bartunek-Graphite game will be conceded an excellent chance to reach the national final.

Latest cripple in the Shamrock team is Joe Strattman, who twisted a knee in last Sunday's game against Heidelberg. In his place McNab wants to use Larry Kickham but he is not certain that Kickham is physically fit for the job. Larry suffered an injury at work a month ago and has not played since. If Kickham is not available, Egan may be shifted to outside left and Kane used at right halfback. Heavy going always has helped Kane's game.

Among the Cleveland club's probable starters is Vic Kiecelinski, a St. Louis Municipal League product, who has been playing a very useful inside right, between George Caraffi, center, and Alvin Schempp, the right winger. Kiecelinski was a member of the Spanish Sport Club when it played in the St. Louis Soccer League last season.

In trying to overcome the absence of Center Halfback John Neilson, who is not with the team at present, Manager Anton Jicha has transformed Alex Hornak, formerly a center forward, into a center halfback, with good results. Hornak played with first-class clubs in Czechoslovakia before coming to this country two years ago.

Useful Brothers.

The Caraffi brothers add sparkle to what might otherwise be a dull picture. McNair, in his only previous appearance here, started at left halfback, where he was very effective, and then switched over to outside left, where he sped away on several dashes that had the Shamrock defense groggy. He is dangerous. Charley Tengler, giant goaltender, has always performed well in his visits here, and J. Thompson, the right fullback, is unquestionably one of the best men in the West.

FLYERS SEEK 17TH LEAGUE VICTORY AGAINST KANSAS CITY

LEO CARBOL TO MISS GAME DUE TO INFECTION IN HIS NOSE

Don Olson, Youngster, to Take Veteran Defense Man's Place in Contest With Greyhounds.

Lee Carbol, the Flyers' big defense man who has not missed a game in several years of competition, will be forced to watch his teammates participate in their next two American Hockey Association contests from the sidelines. Leo will be on the shelf for the next week, due to an abscess in his nose.

The Flyers will depart tonight for Kansas City where they battle the Greyhounds in a New Year's night match, and following the Kansas City assignment they return home for a game with the Skyhawks of Wichita Sunday night at the Arena.

Carbol is regarded as one of the hardest-working members of the Flyers. Tall and sturdily built, Leo is rated with the best rear guards in the A. H. A. He gave one of his best exhibitions of checking when the St. Louisans defeated the Chicago Blackhawks of the National League, 2 to 0, several weeks ago.

Must Cut Down Roster.

Starting tomorrow, the Flyers and the other five teams in the circuit are supposed to cut their rosters down to 12 men. However, each team can carry a spare and use him in the event of a major injury. Manager Johnny MacKinnon plans taking Don Olson, a youngster, to Kansas City as his twelfth player.

In the game in Kansas City the Flyers will be opposing their erstwhile goalie, Mickey Murray, for the first time this season. Mickey was forced to the bench due to injuries the last two times the Flyers met and defeated the Greyhounds. Since Mickey joined the Greyhounds, the club has played an improved brand of hockey. The Kansas City sextet won four straight games after Murray went in the net. While a member of the Flyers, he turned in many brilliant games.

Kansas City is primed for the game with the Flyers. Coach Pudge MacKenzie has made several changes in his battlefront, including the benching of two former Flyers, Norm Walker and Paddy Paddon. Walker and Paddon became Greyhounds in a trade which brought Ollie Mulvihill to the local team.

Have New Defense Star.

One of the Greyhounds' newcomers who has been playing smart hockey in recent games is Pete Owens, who performed last season in the Pan-American League. He and Rockburn form a defense combination.

Rusty Hughes, a tough, rugged defense man, who was benched earlier in the season, recently hit his stride and will be used against the Flyers. He and Bouncer Taylor make up the other Kansas City rear guard duo.

The Flyers will be attempting to get by their twentieth game without suffering a setback. They recently established a modern hockey record by engaging in 19 games without losing a verdict. Their record includes 16 victories and three ties. They also defeated the Chicago Blackhawks in a non-league affair.

By the Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Dec. 31.—Lack of team work early in the game proved costly to the Mexican army polo team here yesterday as it dropped its international series opener, 13 to 11, to the crack Austin Polo Club. Will Ex-Flyer Stop the Flyers?

STEELE READY FOR TITLE BOUT AGAINST JONES

By the Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 31. — Dave Miller, manager of Freddie Steele, middleweight boxing champion, denied yesterday his fighter had accepted a bout with Eddie (Babe) Risko. Steele is to fight Gorilla Jones here New Year's day in a 10-round title bout.

James Johnston, boxing director, announced in New York that Madison Square Garden had arranged for a 15-round championship battle between Steele and the man he dethroned, probably on Jan. 22.

"If Jimmy Johnston announced a Steele-Risko fight he does not know what he's talking about," Miller said.

Steele, meanwhile, ended his heavy training for the title match tomorrow afternoon against Jones, Akron (O.) Negro and former title holder. Both fighters were pronounced in fit condition by Dr. Francis X. McCormick of the State Athletic Commission.

"How does Johnston or anyone else know that Steele will be the champion after the fight," Miller said. "Furthermore, Johnston has not notified me that he has accepted my terms. He knows that I must get a guarantee of $25,000, round trip transportation from Tacoma, Wash., for three persons and $1000 training expenses before I will sign for Steele."

This will be Steele's first defense of the crown he won five months ago from Risko. Jones, a veteran ring master, is conceded a chance if his legs stand up under the fast pace Steele is sure to set.

SOUTH SIDE LOSES TO QUINCY ACADEMY BASKET TEAM, 33-15

Quincy College Academy added South Side Catholic to its list of five straight victims last night when the out-of-town team decisively trimmed the South Siders, 33-15, at St. Thomas Aquinas Hall. Quincy numbers the Hannibal Junior College Freshman team among its victims this year.

Rom Terwelp and Jack Bowers, Quincy forwards inter-mingled a few fast breaks in the visitors' weaving style of play to lead the scoring for the evening, garnering nine and eight points respectively. "Beansy" Barrett paced the losers with two field goals and one successful free throw.

South Side's only bid for a victory came in the second quarter, when the local team got nine points to the victors' four. Thereafter the Quincy team scored 18 points to South Side's five in the second half. "Togeau" Ellerbe, South Side coach started his second team to give the regulars time to regain their breath after dashing in from the Normandy Tourney, where they lost, 31-26, to Webster.

Clifford Fitzgerald got eight points to pace the South Side "B" team in its 20-14 victory over the Quincy "B" squad in a preliminary contest. With the score deadlocked 14-14 going into the final period Clifford broke the tie with a short shot, which inspired his teammates to a last quarter rally of six points. Allan Willer led the visitors with five points.

STANFORD TEAM ENDS 43-GAME WINNING STREAK OF LONG ISLAND

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—The "Laughing Boys" of Stanford, champion of the Pacific Coast, ended basketball's longest winning streak in Madison Square Garden last night when they trounced Long Island University's quintet, 45 to 31, before a crowd of 17,623 persons.

L. I. U. had run its victory string to 43 straight games and were favored to win, but the cardinal-clad Stanford boys, led by the loosely-knit Hank Luisetti, piled up a 22 to 14 advantage at half-time and more than held their own in the closing half to win in more or less of a romp.

Stanford showed the East a new type of basketball. They not only played a hard, fast game but they laughed and enjoyed themselves while doing so. In the East, they play so hard they forget to laugh and that alone aided in L. I. U's undoing.

The laughing Luisetti, touted as one of the Pacific Coast's greatest basketballers, lived up to advance billing by leading the Indian attack with 15 points, 10 via the goal route and five more on foul throws.

Howie Turner, the other regular Stanford forward, was right behind Luisetti in scoring with 11 points and lanky Art Stoefen, the Indian center and a cousin of Lester Stoefen, the tennis star, contributed seven points to the victory total.

The diminutive Jules Bender was Long Island's only really accurate shotmaker last night. Bender opped the Blackbird scorers with 14 points and took second honors for the game, but Bender alone could not cope with the deadly Stanford offensive.

GLEN MORRIS AWARDED THE SULLIVAN TROPHY

made his first professional appearance this week, Owens' first remark was: "That's funny." He immediately congratulated the westerner, saying he was "glad the best man won."

Asked if he thought his turning professional had any effect on the balloting, Owens replied:

"I don't see how it could. The things I did were done when I was an amateur. Anyway, I guess the less said about those things the better."

Two Helens Honored.

Jack Medica, Seattle's Olympic swimmer, finished third to Morris and Owens with only 301 points. Trailing him in order were tennis player Helen Jacobs, Berkeley, Cal., with 204 points; sprint star Helen Stephens, Fulton, Mo., 174; polo ace Tommy Hitchcock, New York, 170; amateur golf champion Johnny Fischer, Cincinnati, 153; Lieut. Charles F. Leonard, New York modern pentathlon star, 153; Olympic hurdler Forrest (Spec) Towns, Georgia, 123, and yachtsman Herman Frasch Whiton, 34.

The 600 members of the balloting tribunal voted for three of the 10 in the order of their choice. First place counted five points, second three and third one.

The Previous Winners.

Morris won four of the 10 events of the two-day decathlon program at Berlin—the 110-meter high hurdles, shot put, 400-meter run and discus throw—and turned in creditable performances in all of the others.

Previous winners of the award include Bobby Jones, 1930; Barney Berlinger, 1931; Jim Bausch, 1932; Glenn Cunningham, 1933; Bill Bonthron, 1934, and Lawson Little, 1935.

Athletes are eligible to win the award only once. Otherwise Cunningham, who raced brilliantly at Berlin and elsewhere, probably would have given both Morris and Owens a race for the honor.

Voted No. 1 in Advancing Sports

Glenn Morris of Fort Collins, Colo., winner of the decathlon at the Olympic games, has been declared winner of the Sullivan Award, an honor given annually through a poll by the A. A. U. of 600 sports leaders of the country, to the athlete who "has done the most to advance the cause of sportsmanship."

H. SCHAEFFER AVERAGES 262 BUT HIS TEAM IS DEFEATED

Harold Schaeffer of the Budweisers proved the star of last night's round of the Classic Bowling League, when he put over a total of 786 for an average of 262, on the tenpinners' "pet drives"—the Del-Mar Recreation. In compiling his big score, Schaeffer had games of 220, 278 and 288.

Despite this big score, the team lost two out of three to the Hermanns. The winners totaled 3272 and the losers 3250. As a result, the teams are tied for first place. Fred Taff, 687, and Sam Garofalo, 670, did the heavy gunning for the winnes, while Ray Newton gave Shaeffer most assistance with 663.

The Say It With Flowers scored 3252 to win two out of three from the Silver Seals with 3128. Mitizi Weinstein topped the winners with 707, while Otto Stein Jr. had 742 for the losers.

The Witkes, scoring 3067, took the odd game from Club Plantation, 2927, with Lou Haar, 684, and Hank Summers, 692, as team leaders.

Major City League results on the Rogers Recreation alleys were as follows: Cabannes 3, Missouri Pacific 0; Silver Seals 2, Brunswicks 1; Old Judge 2, S. & S. 1; Krones 2, Alexanders 1; Allhoffs 2, Falstaffs 1; Lamberts 2, Atlas 1. Clarence Kaley was high individual with 691, while the Old Judge five totaled 3018 for the best team effort.

Four teams from the Central Rowing Club League, the Gasts, Midwests, Breimeyers and Centrals, have entered the Greater St. Louis Bowling Association tournament to be held at the Arway Recreation, starting Feb. 5. Officials are making an effort to get 400 teams in the competition.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31.—College football stars of the East and West who will clash here tomorrow in the Shrine's annual charity game wound up practice today with light drills.

Newspaper Stories About Owens' Plans Quoted by Board

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.

THE Sullivan Memorial Committee, possibly anticipating a storm of protest at the selection of Glenn Morris over Jesse Owens, said that the sprinters' difficulties with the Amateur Athletic Union "in connection with post-Olympic competitions might be charged up to misplaced confidence and therefore ignored."

However, it will be noted that this statement does not say that these difficulties were ignored.

As a further indication of the considerations that may have influenced the tribunal in their choice, the Sullivan Committee's summary of the "reasons" for Owens' selection for second place winds up with the quoting of newspaper accounts about him. These stories related of his determination to become a professional and, recently, quoted him as having made $50,000 since the Olympics.

The BRIGHT SIDE of a COLD MONTH

By ROSCOE NUNN
of the United States Weather Bureau

The bottom of winter comes about the middle of January. This fairly level bottom stretches from the twelfth to the eighteenth, inclusive. But the day that has actually averaged the coldest of the whole year is January 13, with an average of 28.5 degrees. The absolute minimum temperature of record was 22 degrees below zero, on January 5, 1884. The normal average for the whole month is 31.1 degrees, which is appreciably lower than the average for any other month. But there is a wide range in January temperatures, the highest monthly average being 46.8 degrees in 1880, and the lowest, 18.8 degrees in 1918. The normal number of "degree-days" is 1013; greatest number, 1429 in 1918; least, 563 in 1880.

January is not devoid of cheerful aspects. For example, the days are growing longer from day to day, and on the thirty-first the sun rises 12 minutes earlier and sets 32 minutes later than it does on the first. Also, in most years there is a slight but distinct pulsation of warmth, or a hint of spring, about the twentieth, with two or three days of comparatively mild weather, which spreads eastward in two days to the Northeastern States, where it is more pronounced and is known as "the January thaw."

Precipitation, including melted snow, averages 2.34 inches, making January one of the drier months. The snowfall, unmelted, averages 4.9 inches. The greatest precipitation of record for January was 8.53 inches in 1916, and the least, .13 inch in 1919. The greatest total snowfall was 14.3 inches in 1904. In January, 1923, there was no snow at all and in four other Januaries of the last 52 only traces occurred.

The normal number of bright sunshine hours for January is 149, appreciably more than for December, but still rather small, giving an average of only 4.8 hours a day. January is second only to December for fog and smoke. Normal number of days with dense fog, two; with dense smoke, 1.8. The greatest number of dense fog days in January, six, occurred in 1917 and 1935; greatest number of dense smoke days, five, in 1918. Winds come from the south most frequently, but almost as often from the northwest. Normal average hourly wind velocity is 11.7 miles.

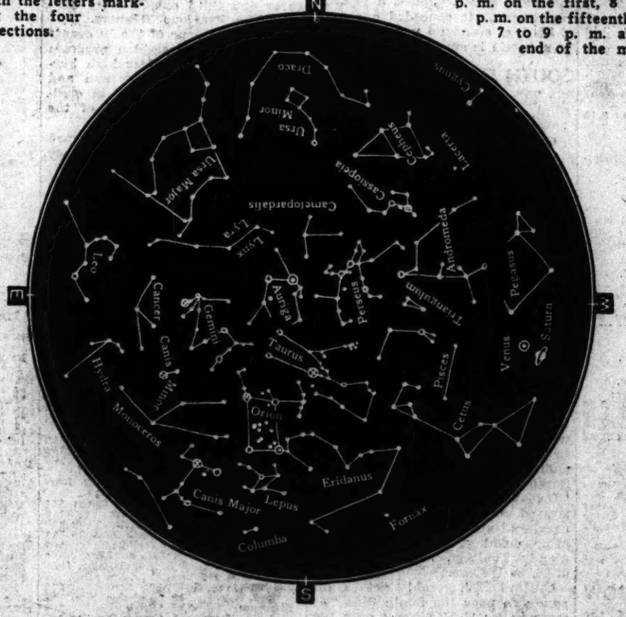
It shows the stars as they will appear to St. Louisans 9 to 11 p. m. on the first, 8 to 10 p. m. on the fifteenth, and 7 to 9 p. m. at the end of the month.



JANUARY STARS OVER ST. LOUIS

By Jessica Young Stephens of Washington University

The "evening stars" during the month are Venus and Saturn. Venus is very bright, while Saturn looks like a first magnitude star. Both planets are seen in the southwest at sunset and set about three hours after the sun.

The ruddy planet Mars is the "morning star," rising at about 1 a. m. on the first and at about midnight on the thirty-first. It is high in the sky at sunrise.

Jan. 5—The moon passes south of Mars.

Jan. 6—The moon and Mars are close together in the morning sky.

Jan. 16—The moon passes Venus and Saturn on the north. These three celestial bodies form a very pretty triangle in the west in the early evening hours.

Jan. 23—8:00 p. m. Venus passes close to Saturn on the north. They are only about two degrees apart.

The GARDEN Grows INDOORS

By SUPT. GEORGE H. PRING of Shaw's Garden
President, St. Louis Horticultural Society

Whether your house-plant collection consists of a lone philodendron in an elephant-pot or a large group from several years back, there is nothing which so successfully takes the edge off of winter as these indoor plants. If you have a sun-parlor or a goodly expanse of southern windows, you may easily continue your gardening the year 'round, with a wide choice of material for bloom or foliage. The foliage plants are the easiest to grow, needing nothing but water, sunlight, and an occasional bath with soapy water and a soft cloth. Watering is the chief difficulty, but a safe rule to follow is to water the plants which grow in very small pots each day, while the larger plants need water only every other day.

Ferns are in a class by themselves, and seldom do well in the city without a daily spraying of water with an atomizer, to wash off the smoke. The plants grown for bloom are more interesting than the foliage types and somewhat more individual in their tastes.

Poinsettias received at Christmas may be kept alive and even induced to bloom again . . . but not as they did before. When they go dormant, cut them back to about half their size, and store them dry in a cool place. Set the pot in the ground outside in the sun after frost is over; and in early September, before the temperature goes down below 70 degrees, bring them indoors to a sunny window.

Before you begin the annual migration of house plants to the outside in May, repot them, and sink the new pots in the ground. When you bring them indoors again in the fall, they will be fine specimens, ready to stand the winter ordeal. And—

Don't exclude light. They need sunshine.

Don't bring them indoors to a closed-up room. They should be moved inside while the windows are still open.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU—By Bob Burns

A NOTHER Christmas has come and gone and I hope you are beginnin' to recover from the shock. By this time, little Willie's electric train has burned out the fuse on the Christmas tree and Pops is sittin' in front of the fire with his ten and a half feet jammed into his new seven and one-half slippers. Mama's tired voice is tryin' to console little Mary who has just stepped on her new roller skate and fell on the hardwood floor. Anyhow, Christmas is a joyful season outside of a few little worries, such as gettin' a nice present from somebody that you'd forget to get one for. And then it don't make you feel any too good when, after you gave Henry a dollar and a half tie, you take the one he gave you down to the store to exchange it and find out that he had give you a fifty cent one. Sometimes, I think my Uncle Beany was right when he said that Christmas is the time of year when you trade somethin' you'd like to have for somethin' you ain't got no use for.

The Hands That Appeal

By Ely Culbertson.

WHEN the reporters circulate around major bridge tournaments in search of hands for their write-ups, they almost invariably select the ones with sensational features, such as grand slams or enormous penalties. Needless to say, these are not the hands that most appeal to the real bridge student. The finest points are not apt to be immediately apparent to the naked eye. I very much doubt that the hand described today, which occurred in the finals of the Vanderbilt tournament, has found its way into print until now.

The bidding:

East.	South.	West.	North.
Pass	Pass	1 club	2 hearts
3 clubs	Pass	Pass	3 hearts
Pass	4 hearts	Pass	Pass
Pass

East chose to open the fourth best club. The jack would have been a better lead in my opinion. Dummy played the nine which forced West's ace, and declarer ruffed. A low spade was led toward dummy's queen. East hopped up with the king and shifted to a trump. West took his ace and returned a trump. This was allowed to ride to dummy's nine spot. A club now was ruffed and the queen of spades used for an entry for the ruff of a third club. A low spade ruffed with dummy's ten spot permitted the ruffing away of dummy's last club and now the declarer cashed his spade ace.

AT this stage only three cards were left each hand having retained diamonds. Now declarer led a low diamond and, when East played small, put up dummy's nine. West won with the ten, but was forced to return a diamond away from his king to declarer's and dummy's combined tenace.

Declarer's play probably appears simple with all the cards exposed, but in ecality it required shrewd card placing. Many players would conclude that their best chance lay in finding the diamond king in front of the queen, but this would have been a faulty analysis. West already had shown up with two aces and East had shown the spade king. While almost all experts are quite capable of making a nonvulnerable third hand psychic bid, few, if any of them, will bid a hand that is neither fish nor fowl. West, with two aces and nothing else, undoubtedly would have adopted a passive policy and not opened the bidding feeling that he had his share of defensive values and that an attacking bid was out of the question.

In the final analysis the shrewd play of the hand depends on the accurate appraisal of opponents' bids.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: When partner has shown two suits and I have equal length in both, but am stronger in the second, should I let the second named suit stand?

Answer: You usually should return to the first named suit even though you have greater strength in the second.

FORUM ON SPEECH CORRECTION

Experts, Meeting Here, Correlate Stuttering and Use of the Hands

By Marguerite Martyn

This is one of many theories in speech defects advanced at the convention of speech correctionists which has brought experts in every branch of speech teaching to St. Louis this week.

There may be differences of opinion among the experts with regard to this theory that shifting from left to right-handedness causes stuttering. Questions arose from the floor at an all-day meeting at Hotel Statler devoted to studies of stuttering. But the program was dominated by University of Iowa men, and in the speech department of that institution they have made extensive research in the subject and have developed that conclusion. Dr. Lee Edward Travis, president of the American Speech Correction Association, comes from Iowa City, and is the leading exponent of the theory, although the subject was presented in a paper by Dr. Bryng Bryngelson, now of the speech clinic of Minnesota University, formerly of Iowa.

There are other causes of stuttering, it was admitted. Fears, shocks and frights, inherent instability, lack of will power, friction and insecurity in the home, respiratory abnormalities, mental suggestion, any of these may contribute or predispose to stuttering. All these causes and many methods of overcoming the affliction were treated in papers technical and scientific from the standpoint of speech pathologists, psychoanalists, pediatricians, otolaryngologists and teachers generally. No specific causes and no specific remedies seem to be agreed upon. No two stutterers can be depended upon to react the same to a given treatment. There are well-known "Jonah words," but they vary greatly from stutterer to stutterer. Fear is not a cause with young children, it was pointed out, since children often begin stuttering before they know the meaning of fear. Indeed, most young children stutter in the sense that they use many repetitions. Those who develop normally outgrow the habit.

However, stuttering can be cured and there were speakers on the program offering themselves as exhibits to prove it. One among these, Dr. C. Van Riper of Western State Teachers' College, Michigan, announced himself as having been a severe stutterer before he underwent training at Iowa University. Without more than one or two suspicions of a stammer—once he had to stop and say "shortly" when he couldn't quite say "soon"—he delivered an address on the technical point, "The Preparatory Set in Stuttering." Reviewing his experience he said he had eliminated fear that had caused him spasms and contortions of speech by saying to himself: "Stutter all you want to, but don't stutter as you have been stuttering. Change your style of stuttering. In place of stuttering the old way, now stutter a new way." He had, he said, changed from long blocks to short ones, then little tiny ones.

"Contortions," he said, "have a history of having been instituted as an emotional escape device, a release, a prop. A new contortion may not be an improvement on an old one. In my case it couldn't have been worse and the substitute really proved to be better."

ANTICIPATING Jonah words, using them as a stop goal at which to get his speech under control, was another ameliorating device he described. A distraction, such as an imaginary button to press, would help him to come to a full halt and make a fresh start. Appropos, at this point Dr. G. Oscar Russell of Ohio University remarked that in his class he once had a boy who, coming to a Jonah word would stop, snap his fingers and say "O, Hell!" by way of getting a new start. And that other boys imitated the device with good effect until O Hell! became an accepted method of punctuation in the speech correction class.

Originally left-handed, a shift to right-handedness contributed to his stuttering and a shift back to left-handedness helped in his cure, Dr. Van Riper believes, although getting rid if the fear of stuttering by voluntarily stuttering and practicing theories of mental hygiene to rid him of introversion and unsocial attitudes and habits, also played a part.

"I made a full time eight-hour-day job of it for nine solid months," he said. Then, with the gesture of a man throwing off shackles, "It was worth it."

Defending the theory that handedness has something to do with stuttering, Dr. Bryngelson said:

"In no circumstances should the native handedness of a child be disturbed. Because of the rarity of left-handedness people have believed there was something abnormal about it. Those children who persisted in the use of the left hand were considered awkward, poorly co-ordinated, out of place in a right-handed environment. If the parents did not succeed in 'breaking' the child, the primary teacher attempted the task of shifting the handedness function in writing.

"The truth is, left-handedness is inherited, is as natural as being fat, tall or blue-eyed. Interfering with the development of the natural sidedness of a child by transfering handedness almost invariably disturbs deepseated neurological functions of organism. This process of shifting runs the danger of establishing a new control of peripheral skills on one side of the brain, leaving untouched or undeveloped the natural facility for speech and reading on the opposite side of the nervous system. It is at this point the child usually suffers disintegration resulting in stuttering, reading, spelling and other disabilities.

"As the result of laboratory studies, we now believe that speech reading, and spelling are complex, highly organized skills, which are dependent upon unilaterality of brain function for their smooth and unimpeded, they must receive, simultaneously, similar reaction patterns, of equal strength, from the head office, the brain. In the execution of the speaking and reading acts there must be resident, in one cerebral hemisphere, a dominant gradient of sufficient power to integrate the bilateral structures used in talking and reading. The best guarantee that man has of free-flowing speech is one-sidedness in nervous development.

"Moreover," he concluded, "studies have revealed that left-handedness is not as uncommon as formerly believed. Thirty out of every 100 children born would grow up to be left-handed adults if environment were neutral. The difficulty has been that those taking care of children, acting on ignorance and prejudice, have assumed the responsibility of making right-handed folk out of all children."

Suggestions for The Guest Room

By Elizabeth Boykin

SOME people are very hard boiled and manage to refrain from inviting everybody but the bill collectors to come for dinner and spend the night. But there's something about being a hostess that appeals to most ladies, even when they don't have a guest room.

Dorothy has always adored having guests, but she never has had a nice spare room so she and Bob usually move out to the living room davenport in order to make their company comfortable in their room. Now at last they have a house with an extra room and Dorothy's had more fun fixing it up.

She's had the walls painted in a deep old rose and used a blue and white patterned tile cretonne for the draperies, bedspreads and dressing table skirt. For the floor she got a gray two-tone brocade design and had it cut the right size and finished with rose wool fringe. For the furniture she bought a poster bed finished in mahogany, a highboy and a night table, then added an easy chair in plain blue and a small desk. There was a mirror door to the closet which would do for men guests, and for the ladies, of course, the dressing table.

The finishing touches were the triumphs though—a pair of book ends on the night table kept bright with new books, a writing portfolio filled with nice, but plain white stationery and a fountain pen filled with ink. In a bureau drawer, she had a small sewing basket with needles, pins, thimbles and the usually in demand colors in thread, black and white and the popular stocking colors, and of course a toothbrush wrapped in cellophane along with guest size toothpaste. Of course you can imagine how glad Dorothy's guests are to be invited back again.

Notes on New Motion Pictures For the Week

NEW YEARS'S EVE shows are the order of the day at film houses, with previews of new features, special stage entertainment and added short subjects as items on the bill. Increased prices will prevail at the Fox, St. Louis and Ambassador.

Loew's late tonight will offer a preview of "After the Thin Man," its feature for the week beginning tomorrow. Although "Camille," the Greta Garbo-Robert Taylor picture, has been unusually successful in its week's run, and there was some indication that the picture would be held over, "After the Thin Man," which centers around a New Year's eve in San Francisco, was booked in, to give the theater a new attraction.

"After the Thin Man" is a sequel to "The Thin Man," which came out in the spring of 1934 and was voted one of the Ten Best Pictures of that year. William Powell is seen again as Nick, the detective who swears never again, and Myrna Loy as Nora, his heiress bride. They return to San Francisco only to find that a relative of Miss Loy's has disappeared. The trail leads through Chinatown and a fashionable residence section, and three murders are committed before the solution. In the cast are Jessie Ralph, Joseph Calleia, James Stewart, Elissa Landi, Sam Levene, Teddy Hart and the wire-haired terrier, Asta.

SONJA Henie, three-time Olympic figure-skating champion and 10-time world figure-skating champion, is the star of "One in a Million," which opened at the Fox yesterday. Miss Henie, born in Norway and trained since childhood in ballet dancing and ice-skating, had never appeared on the stage or before studio cameras until "One in a Million" went into production. She is under long-term contract to make two pictures a year.

"One in a Million" tells the story of an American band unit, touring Europe, which stops at a Swiss inn and there finds the innkeeper's daughter, Miss Henie, training to compete in the Olympics. Adolphe Menjou, impresario of the unit, makes plans to take the skater to America as a professional artist, and almost ruins her victory in the Olympics. But matters are straightened out and the skater makes her American debut in a big ice show at Madison Square Garden. In the cast are Don Ameche, as a newspaper correspondent on assignment in Switzerland; Ned Sparks as his photographer, the Three Ritz Brothers, Jean Hersholt, Arline Judge and others. Borrah Minevitch and his troupe of seven harmonica players make their first appearance in a feature-length film.

Six song numbers are introduced. For Miss Henie to display her skating talents, an ice-skating rink 150 by 80 feet was built, and with scenic changes, used successively for a small lake, a fashionable casino at St. Moritz, an ice stadium in Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, and finally for Madison Square Garden. Instead of rounding up skaters for the chorus ensembles, Dance Director Jack Haskell selected dancers with best sense of rhythm and spent seven weeks training them to skate. Shooting of the picture took 45 days.

The Fox's second film is "Night Waitress," comedy melodrama set in San Francisco. Margot Grahame has the title role, Gordon Jones plays opposite her as captain of a schooner.

DEANNA DURBIN, 14-year-old soprano star of the Eddie Cantor broadcasts on the radio, makes her screen debut in "Three Smart Girls," opening at the special New Year's eve show at the Ambassador tonight. A new "Hit Parade" stage show, with Danny Meehan as master of ceremonies and Al Dee conducting the orchestra, will go with the picture.

"Three Smart Girls" is the story of three daughters of a wealthy New Yorker, who set out to save him from marrying an adventuress. Leaving their divorced mother in Switzerland, they go to New York, move into their father's apartment and do everything they can to upset his new romance. Miss Durbin, Nan Grey and Barbara Read are the daughters, Charles Winninger the father, Binnie Barnes the adventuress and Alice Brady her mother. Others in the cast are Ray Milland and Mischa Auer.

Miss Durbin's song numbers are her favorite, "Il Bacio," "My Heart Is Singing" and "Someone to Care For Me." The latter two were written especially for the picture.

TWO Christmas week features are moved about for new programs. "Stowaway," the Shirley Temple picture, and "Laughing At Trouble" went to the Orpheum yesterday from the Fox. "Laughing at Trouble" is to be dropped from the bill after today and "Rainbow On the River," the Bobby Breen picture at the Missouri, added. The final program will run only through Sunday night, as the Ohpheum is closing then.

"College Holiday," which has been at the Ambassador, will be taken to the Missouri tomorrow, to be joined by a new feature, "The Jungle Princess" and "The March of Time." In "College Holiday" are Jack Benny, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Mary Boland and Martha Raye. "The Jungle Princess" features Dorothy Lamour as a Malay girl, who lives in the jungles with a pet tiger and ape as her only companions. Ray Milland, member of an exploring party is wounded by the tiger and cared for by the girl. A native revolt against the "Princess" leads to melodramatic adventures before the two escape. The new issue of "The March of Time" has subjects dealing with the recent kidnaping of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek and the plight of working girls in big cities. The Missouri program of short subjects has one showing the pranks of the St. Louis Zoo chimpanzees, Sammy and Billy.

The Shubert is reviving "Flying Down to Rio," first of the Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers pictures, as the main feature for its new program. The other is "Rich Relations," about an orphan, Frances Grant, who works in an insurance office, meets and falls in love with two socially prominent men, Ralph Forbes and Barry Norton. The Shubert is scheduled to close next Thursday night, as the result of failure of the management to get a satisfactory agreement with the Stagehands' Union for reduction of staffs at both Shubert and Orpheum.

"Go West, Young Man," latest Mae West picture, is the second-run feature at the St. Louis Theater today. The stage show features the Toyama Troupe, acrobats; Ross Wyse Jr. and June Mann in a comedy dancing act; Don Monte, the Roxyettes and Freddy Mack's band.

Every government should appropriate a beer bottle and plenty of matches for the use of diplomats.

Just think of all the heartache that might have been averted in England, if the King had known about the match balancing thing.

Finger Nails Affected by Own Diseases

They Are Subject to Extraneous Growths, and Also become Atrophied.

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

THE nails are regarded by comparative anatomists as modified parts of the skin. Just as the hair is, just as feathers and scales and claws and in some cases, horns are. Sometimes a horny, warty growth will grow from the skin surface and be just as hard and tough as nails, so it is easy to see that the upper layer of the skin can be modified in this way.

Dr. Clendening

If you examine a section of a nail cut across, you see that it does, indeed, rise directly from the skin itself, not from underneath the skin as it appears to on casual inspection. The groove from which the nail grows is simply a turned-in fold of the skin.

At the bottom of the groove certain cells from the corium of the skin become modified, and are known as the matrix, or mother of the nail. It is by continual division of the matrix cells that the nail grows forward.

The white crescent at the base of the nail, the lunula, is simply due to lessened translucency at that part. Some people do not have lunulae. Their presence or absence is of no significance to health, although some people think if you have them on the little finger it means a rich husband.

THE little white spots, known as gift spots, in the nails, are due to small collections of air in the interior of the nail substance.

The rate of growth of nails differs in different people, in different climates and in different seasons.

The average growth of a nail is 20½ inches a year. So we grow a little over 11 yards of nail a year all over our bodies. If the bone of an extremity is broken, the nails of that limb grow less rapidly than its mate—the toe or hand, as the case may be.

The nails respond to disease elsewhere in the body—just as the eye lacks luster and the hair falls out in some diseases, so do the nails vary in their growth. When general disease affects the body, the blood supply to the nail matrix is lessened, and the nutrition of the nail all across its growing edge is poor. Hence a transverse ridge indicating where the thinner nail occurs appears. These ridges were first described by Beau in 1870, and are known as "Beau's lines." They have even been observed after an attack of seasickness.

The Sherlock Holmes of the sick room sometimes astonishes his patient by saying before a question is asked: "I see you had a severe illness about two weeks ago." He has simply observed Beau's lines and calculated the growth of the nail. Elementary, my dear Watson.

The alibi for this sometimes given now, is that women have more freedom than they once had, and hence must take their part of the roughing it. But can that make up for the difference in physical endurance or cover disrespect and rudeness? I think I even read sometime ago of a young man who used fistic measures to make another young man realize that he must show respect for women. Dear Mrs. Carr:

PERMIT me to enter your column again—this time as "counselor."

"Reddy," whose letter appeared in your column, wondered whether the "bachelor friend" had received his New Year's (Leap Year's) proposal. No. To be truthful, there was no one to propose. The girl and this writer came to the parting of the ways two years ago. Another man won her heart and hand! Perhaps thus pursuer was a bit too lax. Hence, his failure to win the fair lady's hand.

"Reddy" also wishes to get pointers on this business of proposing—before Leap Year escapes us. She asks, "If the man accepts, does he or she wear the ring?"

Answer: The girl Uses Her Own Judgment. It is her prerogative to settle this matter—for he doesn't care a hoot who wears the ring!

Numerous other questions need answering. She says, "So, Mr. Bachelor, drum up courage and come to our rescue."

While such "delicate" questions could be much better answered in person, a meeting between us is unlikely; so, in the meantime—use your own judgment. And this can only have a distant effect.

I did not take offense, "Reddy," at your raillery—as you feared. You simply gave me the raspberries. But little girls must have their fun, too, so why should I care? So thank you for your good wishes for the best of luck—and much love during the coming year. And I reciprocate with like good wishes.

A New View Of the Social "Catastrophe"

"The More We Know the Less We're Apt to Like or Be Liked."

By Elsie Robinson

(Copyright, 1936.)

ARE BRAINS A HANDICAP IN HANDLING FOLKS? DOES "BOOK LARNIN'" CRAMP YOUR SOCIAL STYLE?

"They ARE and it DOES!" says Dr. Henry C. Link, director of the Psychological Service Center, New York City. . . . author of the new book everyone's reading, "THE RETURN TO RELIGION." . . . deep thinking, friendly, human, himself . . . all of which has helped him start one of the liveliest debates on record. You'll find the makings of it in the December issue of "The Reader's Digest" under the title — "Personality Can Be Acquired."

Elsie Robinson

That, too, we discussed. Told how Dr. Link had lifted personality out of the mumbo-jumbo class and demonstrated it to be a plain and practical measurement of our "ability to interest and influence other people." A new notion, that—treating personality as a social service instead of a personal asset. Not only new, but inspiring. For hitherto we've regarded personality as one of those things one had—or hadn't. Mostly hadn't. And if, so, you couldn't do a thing about it.

Not so, says Dr. Link. You can acquire personality. All you want. How? By forgetting yourself — thinking of the Other Fellow — studying his needs, then meeting them when he turns your way.

So the Dish Faced Doll with the "O—oo, aren't you wonderful!" technique wasn't so far off after all? To the contrary, she has the complete system—according to Dr. Link—and will rate first prize in any language. It's High-Brow Hattie, not Ga-Ga Gert, who's apt to be the social catastrophe!

A startling theory! Here we've been thinking that society was clamoring for bigger and better brains. And now we're told that the more we know, the less we're apt to be liked! What's more—the scientists say they can prove it. Remember the I. Q.s—Intelligence Quotient tests—that startled us so when first teacher tried 'em out on Junior? Well now we have the P. Q.s—Personality Quotients — in addition to the I. Q.s. The I. Q. lists of questions showed, roughly what one KNEW about people and things. The P. Q.s show how one feels about them, reacts to them, will do about them.

In short—if you're warm-hearted, friendly, tolerant, your P. Q. answers will come out all beaming. But if you're a Sour, Stuck-up Smartie, your P. Q.s will read like a badly spoiled dill pickle.

AND alas and alack for the clever lads and lassies! Carefully recorded files of P. Q.'s show, all too plainly, that learning and friedliness seldom go hand in hand! The more we know, the less we're apt to like—or be liked

But somehow that doesn't make sense, does it? Brains shouldn't be a blight. Knowing shouldn't build a wall against living or loving. Yet there are the records! With the Brainy Boys plainly going sour on society—and society reciprocating with enthusiasm! Something's wrong.

Yes, something's wrong. But it isn't in the brains, themselves. It's in the way we use them. Study the Brilliant Bore. It isn't the things he knows that make him a social panic—it's his personal egotism and arrogance. Real knowledge broadens the brain, deepens the heart—makes any truly wise person humbler, kinder, more understanding—and by so doing makes him infinitely more likable.

Remember Will Rogers? Beloved Abe Lincoln? That gentle, friendly carpenter from Nazareth? Brains didn't cramp their style! It's the shallow-minded, strutting showoff who wears his knowledge as a boutonniere, whom the world despises. And should!

SELF-EXPRESSION IN SPORTS CLOTHES

A Divergence From Current Feminine Frills Appears in St. Louis Displays

By Sylvia Stiles

NO sooner do the fashion designers get a woman enslaved to very feminine clothes than she takes a sudden notion that she must express her freedom.

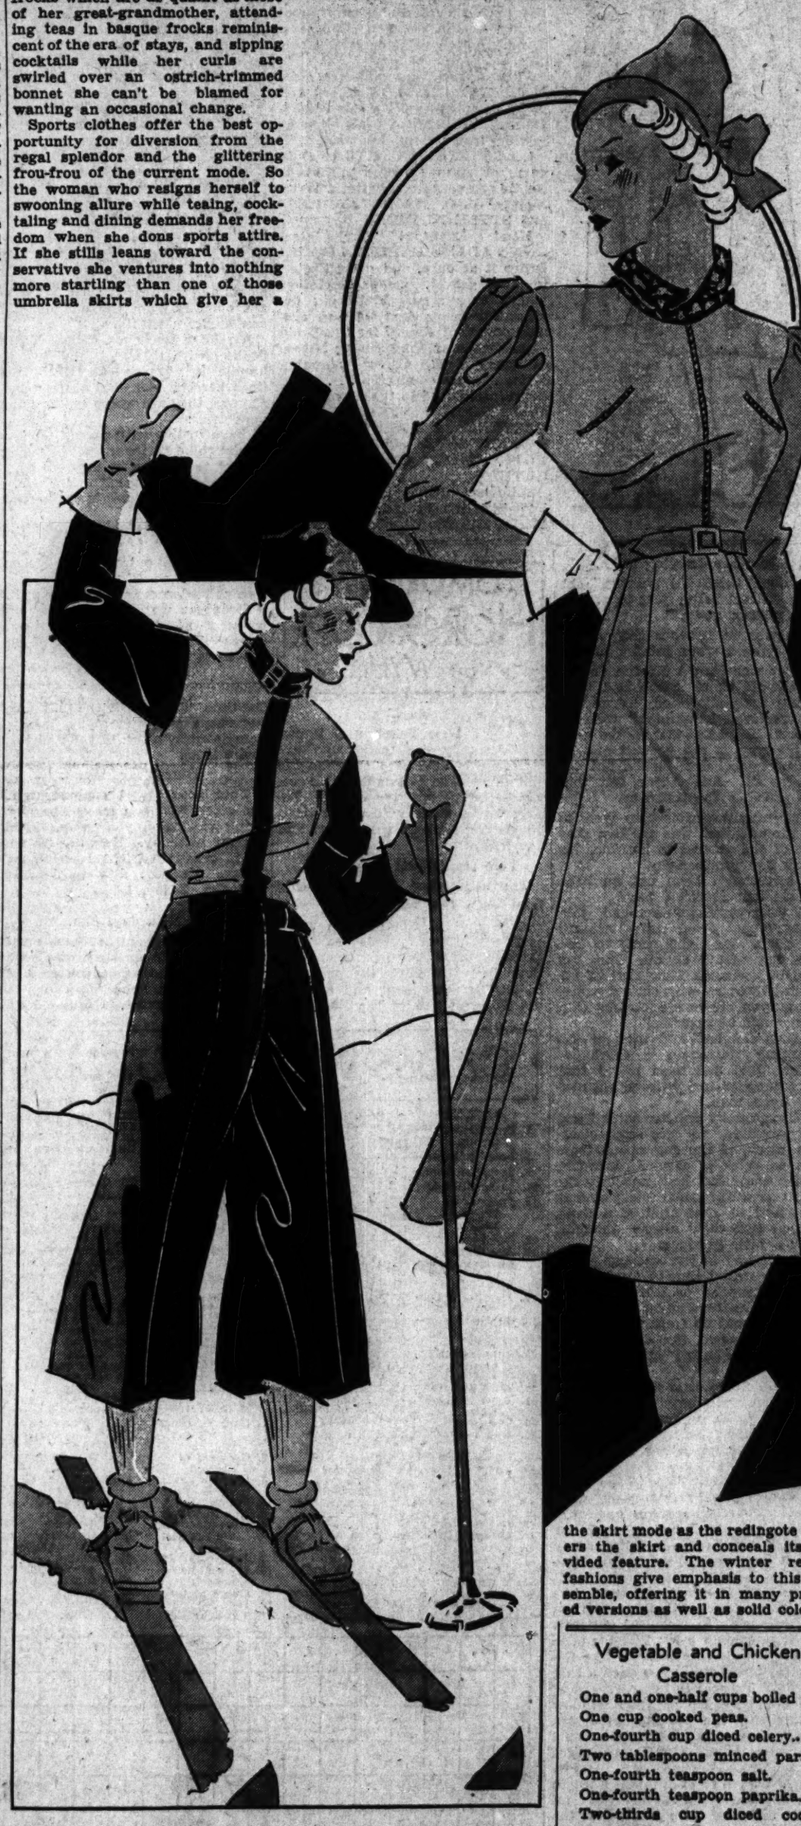
Sometimes she does this by investing in a severely mannish suit or by wearing a tuxedo costume for dinner when the rest of the fair guests are dressed in chiffons and laces. Again she may adopt a sports outfit or a boudoir ensemble emphasizing a trouser theme.

There is something about the very feminine clothes of the present winter season which prompts a woman to revolt. After appearing at formal parties in picturesque frocks which are as quaint as those of her great-grandmother, attending teas in basque frocks reminiscent of the era of stays, and sipping cocktails while her curls are swirled over an ostrich-trimmed bonnet she can't be blamed for wanting an occasional change.

Sports clothes offer the best opportunity for diversion from the regal splendor and the glittering frou-frou of the current mode. So the woman who resigns herself to swooning allure while teaing, cocktailing and dining demands her freedom when she dons sports attire. If she stills leans toward the conservative she ventures into nothing more startling than one of those umbrella skirts which give her a stride as long as she wants, but if she prefers to go completely "haywire" she accepts mannish plus-fours.

The winter sports season which may lead to the sunny South or the snowy North or may keep anyone busy and contented here at home offers plenty of chance for the wearing of clothes which express freedom. Three different types have been sketched as illustrative of the trend for active or spectator sportswear. They are representative of the styles available in St. Louis shops.

The umbrella skirt frock illustrated represents a new trend in sportswear. The flaring hemline is made possible by numerous gores that give the effect of an umbrella.



Skirts of this type are featured for skating, golf, tennis and any sport demanding freedom of movement, as well as for general daytime wear. The winter resort collections have many different versions, most of them shown of pastel woolens. Dark colored woolens are displayed for wear in St. Louis. The illustrated frock is made of a hairy woolen of a medium gray tone, so would be suitable for use in any climate at this time of year. The attached blouse is designed along shirtwaist lines, with a bright-colored scarf tucked into the neckline and pockets adorning the front.

A redingote culotte costume also has been illustrated as representative of a new trend in "freedom clothes." This is a compromise between the trouser and the skirt mode as the redingote covers the skirt and conceals its divided feature. The winter resort fashions give emphasis to this ensemble, offering it in many printed versions as well as solid colored fabrics. The idea promises to be a great favorite and to continue into the summer season. Its advantage is in offering a tailored costume that is suitable for any informal use and at the same time offering a practical play costume when the redingote is removed. The resort collections stress the coat which has short sleeves but designers are making a long-sleeved coat for the regular spring season. The long-sleeved type is expected to be accepted for wear with several different frocks.

PLUS fours may have lost much of their popularity with men golfers, but they have gained new champions among the women who are seeking playtime clothes. Some require the new feminine interest in plus-fours as a signal that the old-fashioned bloomer days are destined to return. Others consider them merely a shorter version of the ski trousers worn so generally for winter sports.

The plus-fours illustrated certainly do remind of the bloomers which girl athletes universally wore several decades ago. These are of a heavy woolen fabric suitable for winter sports, but there are similar styles of lightweight, pastel woolens for use in the South. They are worn with mannish shirt, sweaters and leather jackets, the choice and number depending upon the climate. Besides the separate knickers, there are suits of wool jersey, the tuck-in shirt matching the plus-fours in color as well as fabric.

According to reports from the world's leading sports centers, women are acclaiming the plus-fours with greater enthusiasm than they showed for shorts, so a new fad in freedom fashion is arriving.

The Correct Use of Names And Initials

Marked Towels and Table Linens—Women's Titles in Business Office.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

I HAVE noticed lately in the houses of some of our young married friends that the table linen and the towels are all embroidered with the husband's last initial. Isn't it the custom any more to mark household linens with the bride's maiden initials?

Emily Post

Answer: Because of the obvious inconvenience of having the linen and silver of the Smith family all marked with a "J" for Jones, it has become an almost universal custom to mark all linen as well as silver with an "S." On the other hand, if the bride prefers to follow the old-fashioned custom, it is equally correct to have everything marked with a "J."

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a business woman and in a little while will also be a married woman. I have noticed that so many married women in business remain Miss so and so. Would you suggest that I call myself Miss in the office and over the business telephone? And should I continue to sign checks as I always have and keep my charge accounts in my own name, too?

Answer: According to best modern usage, the business woman who has already, let us say, made a name for herself—or at least started to make a name for herself—as Miss Blank, continues to call herself Miss Blank in business and Mrs. Jones in private life. In other words, she plays two roles and divides them as seems most practical to her.

Dear Mrs. Post: May I ask a further question about note paper? In a recent column you suggested having note paper marked with the street address only, omitting city and state. I had always understood that it was incorrect to separate the component parts of an address. If I have note paper marked with the street address only, where should the city and state be written? A street address alone is not very informative, is it?

Answer: For business letters or when writing to strangers or to friends far away with whom you rarely correspond, it is always best to use paper marked with your complete address. But when ordering paper intended for local social purposes only, the street, address, embossed, not printed, and without city or state, is correct. This is particularly true of New York and other great cities. In the small cities and villages it is true that most people have their full addresses stamped, but these rarely include a street number.

The very first "feel" revealed a woman's purse under the arms inside the overcoat. . . . The crooks were arrested on general principles and the pocketbook's contents were $90 in cash, a lipstick, compact and no identification. . . . Except a slip of paper reading: "Vitaphone." . . . Our hero phoned the Brooklyn studios of that film firm—which makes shorts. . . . He introduced himself and explained the finding of a purse with only the slip of paper, etc. . . . "What would that mean?" asked the detective. . . . "Well," was the reply, "a girl coming over for a test. On that day the only girl we tested was Miss Soandso. She lives at soforth street." . . . That was enough. . . . The dick called there; our heroine came to the door, the spark of love was ignited at first sight, and they'll be married any day now.

We've all made our journalistic erratum and boners, of course. Our most famous face-pinker happened when we were a little boy in 1925, our second year at striving to be clever. . . . In mentioning an American (self-exiled in Paris), we had him going down to the water-front (honest) every night to "watch the American-bound liners fade from view." . . . F. P. A. took good care of us on that one. . . . But sadder by a long shot is the one by the man who made the heel famous. . . . For three years he had been writing about the "keenest brain in Wall street." . . . A few weeks ago the "keenest brain in Wall street" was committed to an upstate bughouse.

SKYWAY LOVERS

A Serial of Air Romance

Alison Is Transferred to a Night Run, and Finds That Terry Is the Pilot—Her First Experience Is Upsetting.

CHAPTER NINE.

IT was early in May that Alison learned she was to be changed over to the sleeper jump for the summer. They were switching everybody around.

Nobody wanted the night hop from Newark to Chicago. It cut into time in such a way that the boys complained they never got any sleep.

Out of Newark at 2 a. m., then into Chicago before daylight, they never got around to go to bed there. And on the trip back to Newark, they always figured they'd all go home and straight to bed the moment they landed. But somehow they never did.

Alison did not mind the night shift, but she did hate the possibility of leaving Phil and Jim.

"I tell you I'll strike if I get that night run again this summer. I've served my time. Let somebody else take it!" Jim had said when he heard of the shift.

SYNOPSIS

Terry Creedon, crack pilot for Continental Air Lines, is sorry he has been so rude to Stewardess Alison Thayer. In Chicago on a lay-over, he got into a fight because he is rude to Alison on a party and she gives first aid to his wounds. Alison, half in love with Creedon before she meets him, is hurt at his manner. She got her job with Continental through John Roerden, president, whom she prevented from shooting Lawrence Weston in a Park Avenue flower shop where the girl was working, because she was out of a job. Mrs. Roerden gets her divorce, Larry Weston sees Alison and dates her without knowing she is the girl from the flower shop. The morning after the party in Chicago, Alison meets Terry, outside her door as she is leaving to go to the airport, and she does not know he has been waiting to offer a kind of apology for his conduct of the preceding night.

"But they'll make me go, and I'd be just sick to be transferred from you two!" Alison cried.

"Say, Sonny, I'll fight like a wildcat if they try and take you away from us. We work like clockwork. Never a murmur. You can't spoil a combination like ours!" they had both agreed.

And that made Sonny very happy. She valued their respect for her work. And she had tried hard. Sometimes she thought of Mr. Roerden and hoped he had inquired about her. She felt sure he had, and she would have liked to talk to him about her work. Doing well was the only way she coud thank him.

Jim was so bitter he complained to the operations manager and announced loudly he wanted Sonny kept with him. But the situation looked bad for Jim.

"I could use the money, of course, it means more dough, but after all, there's something to life besides money!" he grumbled to Sonny. "Don't you agree, 'Green Eyes'?" Jim always called her that when he was serious.

"I suppose there is, but a little money is nice."

"Enough money is nice. But I learned long ago that when you're in the money, there is always somebody to take it away from you. I never can turn down anbody when I've got $50 in my pocket. That's why Mrs. Barnes keeps me to fivers!"

But in spite of all protests, Barnes and Steve, with Sonny, were ordered to the Sleeper Jump.

The first night out, Sonny came to the airport early. Partially because her mother was so nervous about her flying at night. They had had quite an argument about it.

"But, mother, it is perfectly safe, safer than walking across the street!" Sonny protested. "You have been such a brick about it all. You must not worry. It will make me miserable if I know you are home here worrying about me."

It seemed queer to be going out to the airport at midnight. It was a warm spring night, which gave Alison an oppressive feeling of nostalgia. Just why was she so restless? After all, she had much more than most girls. But somehow with her job an old story, life no longer seemed quite as glamorous.

The airport was black, marked only by the boundary lights, and the windows of the passenger terminal. There was no moon. Alison scanned the black sky. The breeze was so soft and warm that Alison sensed a bit of treachery in it. She had come to know weather, watching it as she did, looking at weather maps, hearing Jim and Phil talk about it so much.

At operations desk she stopped to speak to Henderson, night dispatcher.

"Wonder how you'll like the night stuff?"

"It should be very interesting, and certainly the passengers will be simpler. They'll just go to bed. All I have to worry about is getting them up for stops."

"Say, Phil told me to tell you the moment you came in. He's been taken off the run."

"Who will fly it?"

"Creedon and Steve Broderick."

Alison's face must have showed her perturbation, for Henderson asked quickly: "Do you know him?"

"I've just met him once." The girl managed to keep her voice casual. It would be a nuisance flying with Terry when he didn't like her! But that could not be helped. They were not flying for pleasure. The pay envelope came first. And it would not last forever.

"Evidently Terry's back in somebody's good graces," Harrison went on. "Personally I'd rather fly with him than anybody else on the whole line."

ALISON walked over to the restaurant. Through the door she could see Terry's blond head. He was in there talking with Steve. She turned abruptly, walked back to the dressing room and fussed about her locker. It was silly for her to feel as she did about Terry. But she regretted this had happened. She might have known that sooner or later she'd get his ship. That is, since they put him on the eastern run. If Alison powdered her nose more carefully, put her cap on at a more becoming angle, she told herself it was because part of her job was to look as neat and smart as possible.

When she came out into the waiting room again Terry and Steve were just leaving the restaurant and Steve called to her: "So you're going with us?"

"So they tell me," she said, nodding and smiling impersonally to Terry. "How's the weather?"

"Not any too hot. It will be all right, but we'll probably fly the beam to Buffalo and won't see the ground all the way. Nice night's work." Terry lighted a cigarette. He, too, seemed just a little embarrassed that Alison was to be his stewardess.

"Has the porter made the berths up?" he asked.

"Yes, I looked when I first came. We have seven passengers booked, they tell me. Enough to keep me busy anyway," Alison answered.

Not long before take-off time, Alison checked over the berths, helped a nice old lady bound for Chicago to get into her dressing room.

"I don't think I'll undress," she said. "I feel better just to put on my dressing gown."

She was so nervous that Alison spent quite a while talking to her.

Terry was busy with the details of take-off time. Steve had been testing the radio and Terry had just received last-minute weather reports. He passed her in the aisle on his way to the cockpit and he made her feel that he did not see her at all. And Alison felt that was probably the best way.

Four minutes after they were in the air and that was the last they saw of the ground to Buffalo, as Terry had prophesied.

"I wish you'd sit here and talk to me," she cried into Alison's ear when the girl came to her. "I'm not afraid at all. But I'm kind of lonesome. Now first of all, I want to know why such a pretty girl as you are has a job like this. You should be married."

Alison laughed and brought the inquiring passenger a drink of water. She had been asked that same question many times, but usually by a man.

Alison finally got her settled and she promised to get some sleep. The black of the fog about them was so thick it seemed tangible. Alison could feel how smoothly the ship was riding under Terry's hand. Yes, he'd be that kind of a flyer.

"Too smooth," Alison thought, with a little grimace.

She looked at her wristwatch. It must be almost time to awaken the two passengers for Buffalo. They were due in there at 3 a. m.

Alison went up front to the cockpit and opened the door. "How soon will we be in?" she asked.

IT was Steve who answered her, for Terry was busy with instruments. "We're having a little trouble with the radio. I don't know. This fog better lift a little over Buffalo!"

Later she went back to the cockpit door again. Her fingers were so cold she could scarcely open it.

"Ten minutes," Terry told her briefly. "The radio is better. They say it is clear at 500. Let us hope so."

The next 10 minutes seemed like years. She thought of her mother, waiting back in Newark, patiently for a telephone call. The man in Lower 3 called to her: "I like flying at night. Gives you such a safe feeling!" he said in her ear.

Suddenly, through the window Sonny saw the glimmer of lights. They were very low. She could hear the motors throttle back for a landing. Then the wheels touched for a smooth landing which left one uncertain at just what instant the great ship finally left the air. They were down!

Alison felt her nerves snap and tears stung her eyes. But she clenched her hands and helped the two men get their belongings together.

"Good night, or rather, good morning! Hope you ride with us again," she smiled. But her face felt stiff. She could not get out of the ship for her knees were weak.

Terry, coming out of the cockpit, looked at her quizzically. "Scared, weren't you?"

"Certainly not!" blazed the redhead, and her eyes were deep-sea green as she looked up at him defiantly. Then she hurried off the ship ahead of him.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

» by WYNN «

For Friday, Jan. 1.

HAPPY New Year! And it can be happy for those who are most constructive in thoughts and acts. First of two days for seeing broad perspective on life. Today: harmonious with loved ones, but calling for care with elders and novelties.

Your Individual Horoscope.

The difference between being born with the sun at the mid-heaven and at the western angle (setting) affects people so born through different departments of their lives, although the sun may be in the same sign and even in the same degree of the Zodiac at the time. This is why the individual horoscope is yours alone, no two being exactly alike. Place and time make it so.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead encourages all the effort you can make—go to it, bring expansion your way, if this is your birthday. New moves, new ideas, originality, travel, vision, will repay. Danger: now to Jan. 20; and Oct. 2-Nov. 23.

For Saturday, Jan. 2.

PUT the elements of your puzzle together in another way today and see if that doesn't give the right answer; good vibrations for accurate judgment. Use opportunities for improving domestic scenery, too; write, travel, study.

Man Is Sensitive.

Consider for a moment man's sensitiveness to changes of temperature. He is unable to stand unaided the change of angle between the sun in the northern and in the southern hemispheres—in summer he can go in bathing, but in winter he cannot. This is a physical effect on the sun's Zodiacal positions—but there are thousands more, many on the planes of feeling and thinking.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead offers unusual chances, if my best wishes are due this A. M. It is increasingly harmonious, needing only your real efforts to make it a banner year. Meet others. Danger: now to Jan. 22; and Oct. 3-Nov. 24.

Sunday.

Detour uncomfortable financial ruts; and keep out of domestic ditches.

A Basic Fact Of Life Man Needs to Face

By The Rev. J. F. Newton

"THERE is something that separates people, curiously, persistently, in America. Are we not strangers to each other?"

So Sherwood Anderson writes in his new story of "Kit Brandon," in his brooding, indecisive way, mystified by life, frustrated but fascinated, like a puzzled child in a bewildering world.

Strangers? Of course, but it is not in America, it is in ourselves; a basic fact in our human lot which we must face and understand. Until we meet and master it we are babes in the woods.

A girl in the story rebels against the situation. "She thought of people at last finding each other through universal participation. She wanted something wiped out," swept away.

Not in America alone are people separated, strangers to each other. In all ages and lands men have felt the fact, feared it, fought against it, sought to escape from it—but all in vain.

It is a part of everyday living. We can get just so near to our best friend or loved one—then a door closes and we hear it click. We cannot open it from the outside, nor can he from within.

A reader sends me a little poem dealing with this fact, and how to handle it. Maybe she wrote the lines herself; she does not tell me. Anyway they are worth reading and pondering:

"I have to live with myself, and so
I want to be fit for myself to know;
I want to be able, as days go by,
Always to look myself in the eye.
I don't want to stand in the setting sun
And hate myself for things I've done—
I want to go out with my head erect;
I want to deserve my own respect."

Strangers we are to others, but we need not be strangers to ourselves—if we face the fact of our life as it is.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

SHOES undoubtedly cause painful feet but it is also said that a painful foot was the reason for shoes. The fable runs that an ancient Emperor once stepped on something sharp enough to break through the horny hide of his august foot.

In his imperial wrath he ordered the royal leather workers, on pain of death, to cover the whole earth with leather.

Knowing the temperament of their master they did not argue, but proceeded to wash their necks in anticipation of the ax. "I hope I go first," said one, "so the headsman will not dull his knife on your leather neck." "Leather neck?" queried the other, light dimly percolating his consciousness. "That's an idea. Why not cover the King's feet with leather and then, wherever he goes, he will think the world is covered with it."

That night they slipped into the King's tent and fixed the first shoes on his royal feet. Though they subsequently died on the rack, instead of on the block, the idea stuck.

The following is an exercise that is lots of fun and will definitely strengthen weak feet. When you take your shoes off tonight put a marble on the floor and pick it up with your toes. Grip it hard. Then throw it with your foot. Pick the marbles up again and repeat. Continue.

Let's Explore Your Mind

By Albert Edward Wiggam, D. SC.

1.—The mere fact that you see your situation so clearly and its cause strongly indicates you have a lot of undeveloped talent for initiative and for influencing other people. You should read Ordway Tead's fine book, "The Art of Leadership" in which you will find that developing leadership depends on definite rules, most of all on straight thinking. Read also Wm. J. Reilly's fine book, "Straight Thinking."

2.—It's a pretty hard theory to work out in practice—in fact it just doesn't work. Young people who figure this way usually live in cities, where the biggest single item is rent; and since it is possible for them to live two in a room about as cheaply as one, they figure other items will fall in line. But they cannot possibly double up on food, clothing, recreation and a hundred other things. The romantic impulse is fine while it lasts, but when it runs up against two eating off the same plate with only food for one—it gets a terrific jolt from which it may not recover.

2.—In almost all tests of word knowledge it has been found that one's vocabulary seems to decline with age—that people know fewer words, say at 60, that they knew at 25. But two Minnesota University psychologists, Christian and Paterson, have shown that if older people are given plenty of time they recognize more words than young people. They tested university freshmen and also their older relatives—parents, grandparents, etc., on vocabulary and found that even beyond 60, they outdid their younger kinfolks.

THE HEAT OF ICE—Air does not liquefy until its temperature is less than 220 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit. In comparison, ice, with its 32 degrees above zero, is hot. A kettle of liquid air placed on a cake of ice will boil actively, because of the "heat" of the ice which supports it. The liquid air will boil until it is completely evaported.

OBVIOSITY xXx By JOHN CREECY

The Daily Short Short Story.

SUDDENLY Nadine wanted to help the big oaf; to help him the way women like best to help a man—by pointing out his faults.

"Like to know why?" he echoed slowly.

"Yes. Why I'm going to marry Rader; instead of—of you."

It was several moments before he seemed to understand. William was thinking it hard.

"Yes," he said finally. His voice was dull, discouraged. "Yes. Very much."

Nadine spoke tenderly, with deep earnousness.

"It's just one thing, William. It's Rader—your—Oh, how shall I say it—your obviosity!"

"Obviosity?"

"Yes. Don't you see what I mean? You never say or do anything but the obvious thing. You never surprise people. Don't you know how boring it would be for your wife? You'd never do or say anything she didn't know beforehand you were going to do or say. Like now, when I told you. I said to myself, now he'll say 'Rader's a lucky fellow; I hope you'll both be very happy.' And you said it. You knew you did. Those very words."

William gave a little empty laugh. "I guess you're right," he said.

"You understand, William—you don't you?" Somehow Nadine was anxious that William should understand; that he should understand and approve. For an instant she felt—. But no. She had made a decision; she would stick to it. It would seem funny not to have William around, after so many years.

"You understand, don't you—about Rader? He's such fun! Always saying the cleverest things and playing the funniest jokes on people. Life with Rader will be an adventure—not just a settling down. You see, don't you, William?"

William nodded heavily. "Rader is clever," he admitted. "You never know what he's going to do next."

Nadine nodded. She was glad that William indorse Rader. She said, smiling dreamily—

"Now you want to hear how he proposed?" she said suddenly.

"Ha! But isn't that sort of——"

She brushed aside the objection. "It was this afternoon," she said. "We were talking about his work—Rader's very chemist, you know. We were talking about scientists.

"A scientist is a man who experiments, who tries things," Rader said. "If he wants to find out something he doesn't ask someone—he tries to find out the answer for himself. For instance, if a scientist wants to know how many bacteria in a cubic inch of milk he doesn't ask the cow—he counts them.

"If a scientist wants to know whether it's possible to make a rocket that will go to the moon, he doesn't ask a fireworks manufacturer—he tries to make the rocket.'

"Do you get the drift, William?"

"I—I don't think I——"

But the next thing Rader said was, 'If a scientist wants to know whether he can kiss a certain girl, he doesn't ask the girl—he——"

She happened to look and she saw that William's strong hands were clenched into pale fists. His face was tense and white in the light of the moon.

Idiot! Couldn't she have known that this was torture to William? Couldn't she have had tact enough to—. She was ashamed to face him. She wanted to get away. Get away. Quick.

"It's—it's cool," she said. "Would you get my wrap?"

"Certainly," William said (the obvious thing). And he was gone down the white gravel path in the direction of the house and the music.

HE was gone. Now to get away. She wanted to run. To run and run and run so far that he would never see her any more. What must he think of her? Turning him down. Keeping him there—rubbing it in. She ran across the lawn, away from the gravel path. She would run out the driveway when nobody was looking. She would run home.

Nearing the house she checked her flight. There were people there who would see her. She drew back in the shadow of a vine-covered lattice. There were people on the other side of the lattice. Two people, on a bench. The girl was laughing—giggling softly. The man was talking. She couldn't see him, but that voice—that suave, nonchalant tenor. She knew it. She knew the voice.

"A scientist is a man who experiments who tries things," the voice was saying. "For instance, if a scientist wants to know how many bacteria in a cubic inch of milk he doesn't ask the cow—he——"

Listening, Nadine began to giggle, too. Not softly, like the girl on the other side of the lattice, but hilariously — almost hysterically. The pair looked up. She saw Rader rise. Quickly she turned around and began to run again.

She ran back to where she had just come from—to the bench under the old sycamore tree.

William was there, with her wrap.

"Oh, there you are," William said. "I was about to——"

"William!" It was half gasp, half sigh.

"No. It's not cold now." She took the wrap and tossed it on the bench. "William, you know something? You know something I've just found out?"

William looked at her blankly.

"I was wrong, William! Oh, I was wrong! A girl doesn't want to be surprised all her life. There's not much fun in surprises sometimes. There's not much——"

A light of understanding began to brighten William's face.

"You mean——" he said eagerly. "Listen, Nadine, you mean—you mean—you've changed your mind."

"Yes. Yes, William. That's what I mean. I've changed my mind."

She stood there under the old sycamore, a fleecy cloud of white chiffon in the summer moonlight, and the moon reflected blue silver off her upturned nose.

Shy, palpitant, she stood, looking out over the shimmering water. For all the sign she gave she might have forgotten William was there.

For one wild instant William was tempted to throw a shock into her—to pull the unexpected. He knew how he could do it. It had just come to him. He would calmly light a cigarette, and in a casual voice say:

"Your nose is shiny, kid."

But he didn't.

Most Practical Dogs for Cities

By Albert Payson Terhune

A BIG dog is as bad for a big city as a big city is bad for a big dog. A big dog in a big city is as much out of place as is a hawk in a canary cage. When I take my late evening walks, during my three yearly months of exile from Sunnybank to New York, one of the saddest sights I see is the straggling line of large dogs—collies, police dogs, even Great Danes—padding miserably along on a leash. They move at a snail's pace, because they are allowed to go no faster. And after a few months of apartment house loafing, often they desire to move no faster.

Then I get to thinking of my own swirl of rackety collies, romping or galloping on the steep Sunnybank hill-slopes; every muscle straining gladly in the joy of headlong speed. Ten minutes of such wildly joyous exercise is worth more to a dog's health and happiness than is a five-mile cruise along city pavements, at the end of a leash.

There are several varieties of small dogs on which cramped city life seems to inflict no great hardship. They can frisk from end to end of a flat's hallway, or they can scamper on the roof. This and their sedate daily walks seem to keep them in moderately good health and spirits. They are town dogs; much as they might prefer the country. But the dog weighing 30 pounds and upward has no rightful place in a city. Don't keep him there.

HELPFUL ADVICE TO SKIN SUFFERERS

For pimples affecting the outer or surface layer of the skin here is advice that will help improve your complexion.

Every night at bedtime, wash your face thoroughly with Resinol Soap and hot water. Do not rub. Follow with a dash of cold water and dry thoroughly but gently. Then apply Resinol Ointment to the affected skin and leave it on all night. Do this every night, and watch the improvement.

Local treatment is advised as a helpful aid in such cases, and for more than 40 years the ingredients of Resinol have been found effective.

Resinol benefits by treating the irritated oil ducts, where most surface pimples start. In this way it aids healing of such pimples and also tends to check their recurrence.

Buy Resinol Ointment and Soap in any drug store. For free sample, write to Resinol, Dept. 13, Baltimore, Md.
